Celebrating 50 Years
Serving the Community

2017 is a big year for the Moore County Chamber of Commerce. It is our 50th Anniversary serving the Moore County business community. While our roots can be traced back to the 1920's, it wasn't until 1967 that a group of dedicated business owners and community leaders decided it was time to formally create a Chamber of Commerce.

Over the past 50 years, the Chamber has occupied a position of economic, social, and political influence throughout Moore County. Much has been accomplished by the Chamber Staff and its volunteer leaders throughout the years but the work is not yet done. In the last half Century, the Chamber has taken a lead in working on key initiatives or helping to promote issues that impacted our community. Our projects change, but the mission of the Chamber has not which is to serve the community - Connect Business and Community. We are proud of all that has been accomplished by this organization and look forward to serving Moore County for another 50 years, ultimately celebrating a Centennial Anniversary in 2067.

With all that has been accomplished in the past 50 years, now more than ever Moore County is a wonderful place to call home, do business, or support any number of local non-profit organizations. Whether you are considering a new place to call home for your family or business, or have already made the decision to locate with us, know that there are many individuals that have worked throughout the years to ensure this community continues to thrive and prosper. In Moore County, you have access to world-class healthcare, dynamic educational options, cultural experiences that rival many larger communities and natural resources that you can explore on any given day, to name only a few options. It is the perfect place to start a business, raise a family, or retire.

We are proud of our 50-year history. I encourage you to take a moment and flip through this magazine and fall in love with all that Moore County has to offer. I certainly have. Make memories. Stop to smell the pine. Pick up a pinecone. Discover a place where you can work, play, and relax. You will never want to leave and you will immediately want to call this place – home.

With Warm Regards,

Linda M. Parsons, IOM, CCEC

History of the Native Americans of the Siouan family were the original inhabitants of Moore County. They prospered in the region for over a millennium.

500 to 1600

Moore broke away from Cumberland, officially becoming its own County. The name was derived from Alfred Moore, a famous militia general during the Revolutionary War who later became a Supreme Court Justice. Carthage also became the county seat at this time.

1783

Southern Europeans traveling from Pennsylvania and the North Carolina coast settled in the fertile farmlands of Northern Moore County. Highland Scots migrated to the southern part of the county and began manufacturing naval supplies using the area's signature pine trees

1793

The Raleigh and Augusta railroad construction came through Moore County, providing transportation of pine products from the south, and allowing the Sandhills to compete with the prosperous gun and carriage industries in Robbins and Carthage. This led to the development of other towns along the railroad, including Cameron.

1870

John T. Patrick invested in almost 700 acres of land in the southwestern part of the county, and strongly encouraged the growth of the New England inspired Southern Pines and Pinebluff areas.

1884

James Walker Tufts founded the Pinehurst Resort, which was designed to provide shelter in harsh weather conditions and protect people from contagious illnesses. Famous landscape architect Frederick Law Olmsted, who also designed the U.S. Capitol Building, designed the resort.

1895

After discovering resort guests interest in whacking small white balls across the resort's cow pastures, Tufts hired Scotsman Donald Ross to design golf courses, leading to the birth of the legendary Pinehurst No. 2.

1902

After several, less suitable attempts at establishing a permanent courthouse, the present-day Historic Courthouse was finally erected in the middle of Carthage.

1922

Thanks to Mary Lumen Meyer's donation of 240 acres of land on Airport Rd., Sandhills Community College was charted and classes began in 1966. The college had plenty of room to grow and establish itself as a respected educational institution. The college was the first comprehensive community college in North Carolina to offer a college transfer program, and it celebrated it's 50th anniversary in 2013.

1963

Sandhills

Prepped and primed by renowned women's golf professional Peggy Kirk Bell, and her husband Waren "Bullet" Bell, the classic Pine Needles Lodge and Golf Club hosted the first ever Women's U.S. Open in Moore County, setting the precedent for Pinehurst's prestigious status in the golfing community worldwide. Annika Sörenstam won the championship for a second year in a row.

1996

Pinehurst Resort hosts the United States Open Championship for the first time. The final round began with Phil Mickelson, Vijay Singh, Tiger Woods and Payne Stewart all in contention. Stewart calmly holed the final 15-foot par putt and pulls off the win.

1999

The 56th U.S. Womens Open Golf Championship was held at Pine Needles Lodge and Golf Club. Defending champion Karrie Webb repeated as champion, eight strokes ahead of runner-up Se Ri Pak, the largest margin in 21 years. Webb became the seventh to win consecutive titles at the U.S. Women's Open, and the win was the fifth of her seven major titles.

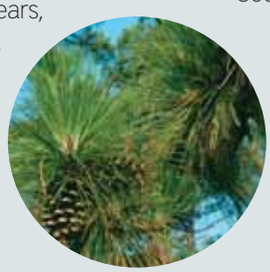
2001

The U.S. Open returned to Pinehurst No. 2, six years was the shortest gap between U.S. Opens at the same site since 1946. Michael Campbell won his only major title in a surprising collapse by two of the best players in the world.

2005

Pine Needles Lodge and Golf Club was the home of the 62nd U.S. Womens Open. Cristie Kerr won the first of her two major titles. Alexis Thompson became the youngest golfer to make it through qualifying and into the U.S. Women's Open, at 12 years, 4 months.

2007



Inaugural Palustris Festival held with a variety of events showcasing the visual, literary and performing arts in the area. The word palustris (pronounced puh-LUS-tris) is from the Latin name of the Longleaf Pine and was chosen for this event because of its unique connection to Moore County.

2010

Sandhills Community College Flyers' basketball bring home a national championship. The Flyers' remarkable run to the NJCAA championship in New York state was not only a great source of pride for SCC but also the community as a whole. The team returned to a hero's welcome that included a parade through downtown Southern Pines.

2012

Moore County continues to make history, in June of this year, Pinehurst's legendary golf course No. 2 will host both the Men's and Women's U.S. Open tournaments, marking the first time both events were held back-to-back on the same course.

2014

The Moore County Chamber would like to acknowledge those who either worked as a staff member or served as a volunteer at any capacity within the Moore County Chamber of Commerce over the past 50 years. It is because of their dedication, and hard work, that this organization has been successful for 50 years and is ready to serve another 50 more. Thank you.

Award-winning REALTOR® Amy Stonesifer got into the business of selling homes because she wanted to get out of her own. Six years ago, she realized she was becoming restless and needed new challenges beyond managing the household while her husband served in the Army in some of the most dangerous parts of the world. What started out as a simple midlife-career change quickly became one of Moore County’s fastest growing real estate firms. That’s because she realized there was an unmet need, one that she could intimately identify with: Soldiers and their families who need specialized individuals to take care of their homes while they’re away – and to sell them quickly when their assignments changed. As business boomed, she recruited the best of the best and built the Maison Real Estate Team – a team of highly talented, client-focused professionals who have the ability to meet military families where they’re at. Stonesifer’s disciplined, results-focused approach to buying and selling homes has become as much a mission as a business, one that gives back to the community and expresses deep appreciation for our men and women in uniform.

Our Towns

Moore County is as much a small southern town as it is a northern utopia. Diverse life style options are a result of the area's unique geography that's claimed fame for the world's greatest golf.

Before Moore County became known for its golf, it was known for its agriculture, textile and long-leaf pine industries, and major railways that transported the resulting commodities out of the county.

When Donald Ross came to the United States at the beginning of the 20th century, he changed the future of the area's economy. Ross's innovative golf course designs took the area by storm, which affected the cultural structure of the whole county. People traveling through Moore County came to envy the golf resorts and authentic southern hospitality, and tourism established itself as a plausible industry.

The northern half of the county has retained some of its "glory day" fervor by continuing to exist as a collection of small southern towns. Farmers and landowners upkeep the vast country landscapes that facilitate the area's popular agriculture and equestrian industries.

The southern half of the county is made up of suburban housing communities that value small town living. It's largely made up of medical professionals and retirees that support local businesses and maintain the golfing industry's top-notch status.

Moore County residents can live on country back-roads as easily as they can live in housing communities that are closer to the county's urban hub. Whether it's a stroll through the town, or admiring the countryside in a pick-up truck, Moore County has something for everyone.

Although more popular at big events and festivals, live entertainment in Moore County is a regular occurrence. Residents have opportunities throughout the year to catch a performance of the Carolina Philharmoic Orchestra, and the Arts Council hosts a Classical Concert Series that brings in talent from all over the world.

For those interested in more contemporary styles of music, Moore County has regular concert series, such as First Friday in Southern Pines, Live after Five in Pinehurst and The Rooster's Wife in Aberdeen. Many of these performances offer free admission, and are presented by the county's best venues, such as the Sunrise Theater in Southern Pines. In the Spring and Summer, artists perform outside to accommodate larger crowds and take advantage of nicer weather.

There are also festivals throughout the year that support local bluegrass bands and southern rock groups, such as the annual Buggy Festival in Carthage and Farmer's Day in Robbins.

For those who fancy live theater, Broadway shows, ballet and world-renowned speakers the Given Performing Arts Center at the nearby University of North Carolina at Pembroke offers access to them on one of the finest stages in the state. Owens Auditorium at Sandhills Community College brings a variety of theater and the Ruth Pauley Lecture series. This series, sponsored by the college, the Moore County League of Women Voters, the American Association of University Women, and Moore County Schools, introduces noted speakers to the Sandhills. The goal of the lectures is to deepen understanding of key issues and encourage public participation in their resolution.

Moore County isn't lacking in the literary department either. The Weymouth Center for the Arts and Humanities became home to the North Carolina Literary Hall of Fame in 1996. This exciting cultural trademark was made possible by former Weymouth Center resident, James Boyd. He made his living writing and publishing, and has been accredited with launching the "Southern Literary Renaissance" in the 1920s and 30s. Boyd's former study – now known as the Boyd Room – is used to host book readings featuring North Carolina's most talented authors.

The county's artistic flare wouldn't be complete without its historical pottery scene. Residents travel across the county to browse the sprawling selection of clay-made crafts in Cameron and Robbins. In fact, Cameron hosts the biannual Antique and Collectibles Fair to celebrate the vast number of local potters and antique shops.

Moore County's art scene entertains the classics, and recognizes its southern roots. From traditional art forms to some good ol' bluegrass, residents can engage in a variety of cultural opportunities throughout the year.

Local Music

Maestro Michael David Wolff leads the contagious Carolina Philharmonic through a series of concerts each season, each one different from the rest. Shows can have a classical feel, or it might be Latin, jazz, or Broadway flavored another night. In addition to acclaimed guest star performances, they have a mission to teach children to play music, and touch the lives of thousands of school children each year. www.carolinaphil.org

The Moore Philharmonic Orchestra is another option for those who seek orchestral music, and they stage four events per year. This community orchestra is comprised of and designed to advance students as well as adults in the Moore County community. www.mporchestra.com

The Arts Council of Moore County offers it's Classical Concert series and Heart n' Soul of Jazz concert. The Classical Concert series is a four-part series, that brings a different classical artist to Moore County each month. www.mooreart.org

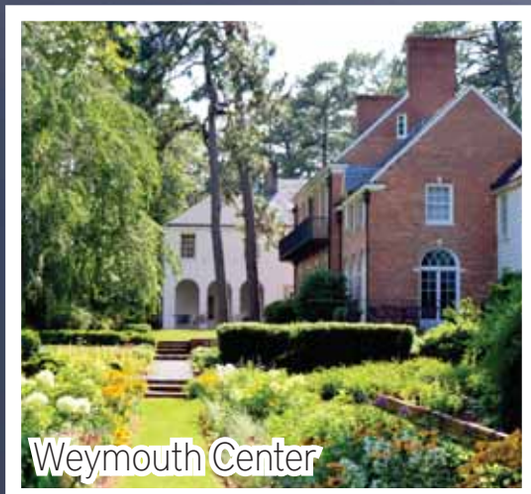
Sandhills Horticulture Gardens

Beauty is a constant here, but perhaps nowhere more concentrated than at the Sandhills Community College's Horticultural Gardens, a 32 acre expanse of plants and shrubbery created over a quarter of a century by students and volunteers. A walk in the garden is a soul soothing experience, salved by the sight of butterflies afloat and the sounds of trickling waters and songbirds through the 16 distinct areas in the garden. Sandhills Community College, recognized as one of the top community colleges in N.C. offers a master gardener series of lectures, as well as continuing education studies in sustainable energy and ecologically friendly products, and even a course in floral design.

The gardens at Weymouth are also a visual treat and respite, particularly as the roses bloom. Volunteers lovingly tend the gardens and grounds. Adjacent and complementary to the home is Weymouth Woods, a 900-acre pocket forest that is left in its natural state. Miles of trails reveal the true Sandhills ecosystems. Both places are particularly good areas for birders.



Weymouth Center

Volunteers

Volunteers play a huge part of what makes Moore Co. such a vibrant community. Whether its keeping up the gardens at Weymouth, helping at the hospital, or coaching a Dixie Youth baseball team, volunteers add untold value to the lives of others without expecting a dime in return. Local business associations in the larger towns contribute to the beauty and economic health of their downtowns through volunteer efforts, raising money and donating it to good causes. Serving the community through local government boards and committees is another approach. Animal lovers devote thousands of hours a year to help agencies such as Moore Humane Society keep the pet population healthy and adopted to good homes.

Countless events are run each year by volunteers, such as the Sandhills Race Series, a collection of fun runs of differing lengths and Friday music events during the warm months. Others volunteer with local schools, the Carolina Philharmonic Symphony, mentoring small businesses, and as ambassadors for the Chamber of Commerce. Whatever your special skills are or what area you'd like to get involved in, there's likely a great avenue for you to contribute.

Pet Friendly Community

If there's a place that loves their pets more than we do, we aren't sure where it is. Many stores are open to dogs, businesses allow workers to bring them in, and there are several pet parades, especially on July 4th. There are a number of excellent veterinarian clinics and grooming services throughout the county, and up-to-date boarding facilities make it easy to leave Ol' Spot or Whiskers at home, when it's necessary, without worry.

Families

Moore County is filled with fun activities for kids of all ages.

Starting with its many parks, there are trails to hike, bikes to ride, and places to enjoy the warm sunshine. The Village of Pinehurst's new zero depth splash pad, located in Rassie Wicker Park, is open during warm months. It includes floor geysers, a big bucket water dump, and a rain shower curtain. Rassie Wicker Park is also home to an inline hockey rink. Pick up games for adults are Saturday and Wednesday nights from 7pm to 9pm. Southern Pines' Reservoir Park features nature trails, hiking trails and disc golf course. It's 95-acre lake is perfect for fishing or boating. Weymouth Woods Sandhills Nature Preserve provides a variety of educational classes. Usually led by state park rangers, the classes offer families a chance to learn about the wonderful nature in Moore County.

The Moore County Airport hosts the Young Eagles flying event each year, which gives kids an opportunity to take a ride in a plane for free. The Southern Pines Riding School is perfect for horse lovers of any age. Students not only learn to ride, but also how to groom, tack, and properly care for a horse. Play Escape in Southern Pines is a 4,200 square foot play place for kids. It features a large climbing structure with slides, a bounce house, designated toddler and infant areas, and offers various classes throughout the day.

Cool adventures wait year-round in the Uwharrie National Forest, Lake Tillery, and nearby Morrow Mountain State Park. This area is just west of Moore County, primarily in Montgomery Co., and is an easy drive. It has numerous amenities such as camping, boating, fishing, hiking, horse trails, and seasonal hunting. The national forest covers over 50,000 acres, so wear your hiking shoes.

Youth Sports

If your family is into athletics, there are a host of choices available for kids of all ages. In addition to youth sports provided through the town and county parks and Recreation departments, there are a number of team sport opportunities available at the club and travel team level as well. Economic Development

It's impossible to describe Moore County's economic sector without recognizing the financial dichotomy that's been shaped by the county's historic culture.

After the establishment of the Pinehurst Resort at the end of the 19th century, the Southern area began developing medical industries and educational institutions that cater to tourists and retirees. In 2012, more than 5,500 jobs were a result of heavy travel and tourism.

In northern Moore, the economy was focused more on manufacturing, specifically textile mills. As that industry consolidated and relocated outside the United States, many of those mills that provided good-paying jobs for residents disappeared. The Convention and Visitors Bureau is working to promote tourism for other interests, in addition to the golfing lure, such as youth sports and pottery tourism, and destination shopping.

A New Direction

The county's economic development organization, Partners in Progress, has refined other economic priorities. Several initiatives are designed to improve Moore County's economic efficiency while reflecting the interests of the county's residents.

Partners in Progress' most recent Program of Work focuses on boosting internal industries and businesses by taking advantage of the county's pre-existing resources. The initiative derives from a feasibility study, indicating that existing economic growth strategies in the Triangle could be successfully applied to Moore County, resulting in the establishment of a three-year action plan.

The plan emphasizes the importance of supporting entrepreneurial talent, as well as local medical, manufacturing and technology-based industry sectors through the exploration of a new technology oriented early college or magnet high school. Partners in Progress also hopes to further associate Moore County with sustainable practices by implementing local food systems and acknowledging the area's artistic and cultural assets.

In addition to further defining and developing the "retail hub" concept for Moore and surrounding counties, there will be a lot of effort made in approaches to create "work ready" graduates from both community college and high school level education. Sandhills Community College is adding four new technical programs this year, and there is much momentum among public school administrators and local advocates in creating an "Advanced Career Center" that would have a dual purpose of both technically based and advanced academics, and would be available to students from all public high schools. The idea will be to create a hirable working group capable of earning higher incomes than traditional service industry jobs pay, thus encouraging the growth of company start-ups and potential relocations of businesses with specialized needs.

Looking ahead to the next few years, Moore County is well positioned to see a positive curve in economic and population growth.

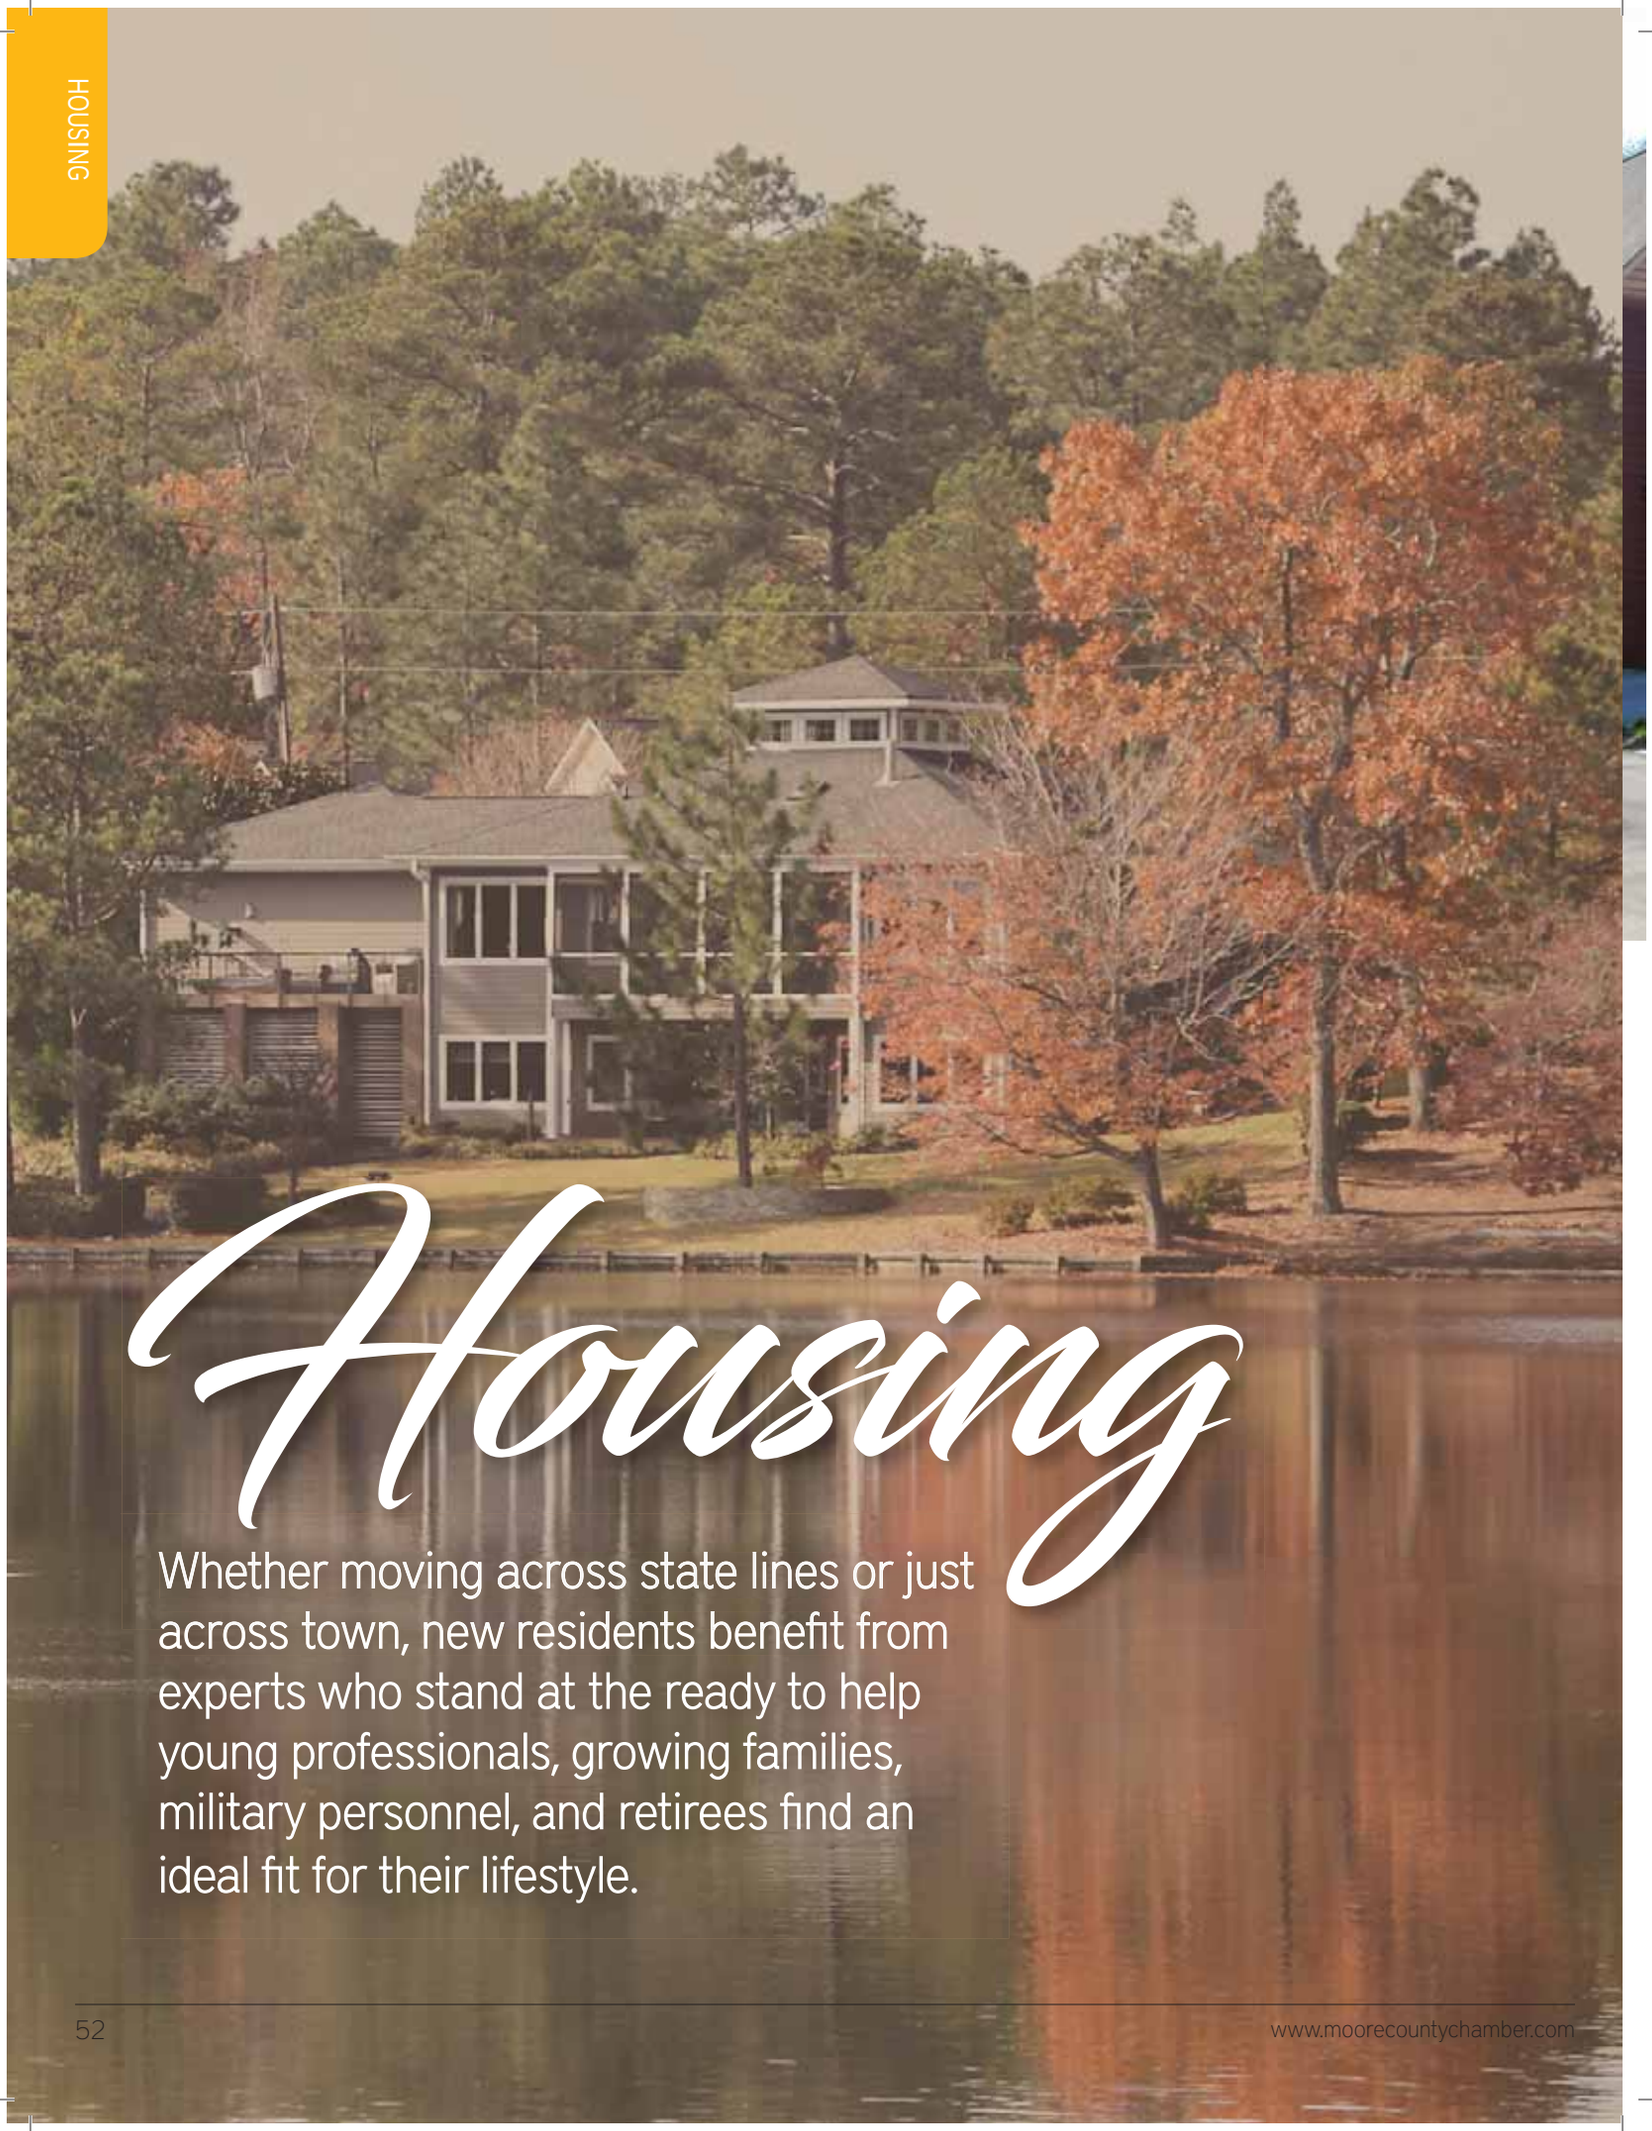
EQUAL HOUSING OPPORTUNITY



Housing

Whether moving across state lines or just across town, new residents benefit from experts who stand at the ready to help young professionals, growing families, military personnel, and retirees find an ideal fit for their lifestyle.

Local Realtors serve as the frontline to help prospective residents navigate the diversity of choices in neighborhoods and homes. These professionals know the assets of towns comprising Moore County, understand the many emotions flooding buyers, and are skilled negotiators, all of which combine to make Realtors a home-buyer's best friend. Some Moore County agents offer small perks for their clients – little touches to help make the home buying and shopping experience run smoothly. Buyers should be sure to ask what kinds of free services might be available, such as a notary public, copier, fax or Internet.

Agencies also provide free maps, local event listings and coloring books for the little ones. Residents seeking rental properties should check with real estate agencies, many of which provide rental listings among their services.

The Moore County Home Builders Association inspires new and existing residents with its annual Home & Garden Expo each spring. The four-day event brings builders, designers, decorators, landscapers and home retailers together under one roof. Plus, the Association's annual "Home of the Year" competition presents a unique opportunity to see the latest and most excellent trends in new homes and updated existing structures.

The communities that make up Moore County are accessible to one another and to neighboring cities with a good transportation infrastructure, making for an easy commute to Fort Bragg or the Triangle. Close-knit subdivisions, walkable downtowns, and roomy farm communities complement one another, giving residents ample choices to suit their needs.

Education

Moore County offers a variety of public and private educational opportunities for students K-12, and is home to one of the most popular community colleges in the state. The college is also partnered with several accredited university programs and local industries in order to ensure graduates a successful future, and those going into the work force proper training.

NY

Prior to beginning their journeys in Moore County Schools, it is essential that all children have the opportunity to build early development skills that will enhance their success in a rigorous and innovative academic curriculum. Moore County Schools (MCS) is one of 77 counties in North Carolina that utilizes a research-based program called Creative Curriculum in all of its pre-school classes that focuses on principles of early child development. Through a partnership with North Carolina's Smart Start program, MCS preschoolers are prepared for success in kindergarten by enhanced readiness in the areas of reading, basic mathematics and social emotional skills.

In 2012-13, Moore County Schools began their Digital Learning Initiative, a multi-phase plan of professional development for teachers, which includes providing devices to all students. The school district has distributed more than 7,000 Chromebooks to middle and high school students for use both at school and at home. The purposes of the initiative are to ensure students are college and career ready; to provide opportunities for students to showcase mastery and growth through the creation and publication of digital work; and to immerse students in personalized learning experiences to collaborate, create and publish, always grounded in the foundation of the curriculum standards.

Growing to Greatness is the name of MCS' Strategic Plan. The plan includes strategic action steps within the four pathways of culture, leadership, learning and community. The county's 23 public schools offer students challenging lessons taught by licensed professionals with years of experience in the field and in the classroom. In fact, nearly half of the school system's 1,029 certified employees have obtained a master's degree or higher in their field of expertise or in teaching.

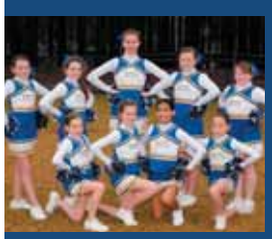
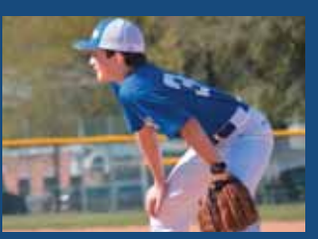
Average SCCS Grade Equivalent above actual grade: 3.9 years

On average, SCCS students test four grade levels above the national average according to the Stanford Achievement test.





Elementary, middle school and high school teachers engage students with rigorous and innovative teaching and learning opportunities. District and school opportunities that support students to be future ready include the STEM initiative, which includes robotics programs in grades K-12, science kits for grades 1-8, CyberPatriot teams at all three high schools, and summer STEM camps that introduce students to STEM-focused careers such as computer programming, forensics, robotics, engineering and chemistry; technology resources and tools; service projects; clubs; athletics and the arts. The five leadership skills that students focus on are accountability, service, adaptability, teamwork and responsibility.

Moore County's excellent high schools make it easy for students to successfully transition into college. SAT scores consistently meet or exceed state and national averages, and all three schools offer Advanced Placement courses, enabling students to start earning college credits in high school. Sandhills Community College even allows high school students in Moore and Hoke Counties to take courses prior to graduation exempt of tuition fees.

In addition to a highly accredited public school system, Moore County has several private schools and charter schools, such as The O'Neal School, Episcopal Day School, Sandhills Classical Christian, The Academy of Moore, and Stars. O'Neal students can attend from kindergarten through graduation at a comprehensive private school with a focus on academic achievement. Episcopal Day runs grades K-8 and stresses strong foundations for life long learning.

For those who want to embrace a religious lifestyle in the classroom, Moore County has Christian academies available for students. Sandhills Classical Christian combines a challenging learning environment with a Christian based approach to develop high achievers in grades K-12.

As a school of choice, the Academy of Moore, is designed for students who may not excel in a more traditional school environment, and for 17 years has taught students from Moore and surrounding counties.

These schools offer alternative, advanced learning opportunities for students interested in smaller class sizes and/or special curricula. Opportunities included studying abroad, and flcusing on the arts or sciences as opposed to standard, statewide learning plans.

Military Life

The southern half of Moore County is linked by location to an important and growing population of men and women in the US Armed Forces. Part of Fort Bragg is in Moore County, and Pope Army Airfield is only a few miles south of Moore County. Camp MacKall is another training facility used by Special Forces that borders the southern tip of the county. Fort Bragg is one of the largest military installations in the world.

The bases are the perfect distance away; far enough so that county residents aren't disturbed by daily training exercises, but close enough for a quick and easy commute. That leads some soldiers, particularly officers, to choose to live here with their families. For decades, a significant number of retired military families have also chosen to settle down in Moore County.

It's not only a great setup for military families; it's great for the local economy too. The county's close proximity to several military bases allows for several local defense industries. In 2014, Moore County businesses made 108 U.S. defense contracts, equivalent to more than $35 million. Compared to 2013, this is an increase of 48% in the number of contracts awarded and a 36.6% increase in the total dollar value. Along with the continued support of the Moore County Chamber and Moore County's Partners in Progress, local defense industries continue to grow and thrive. The North Carolina Military Business Center, www.ncmbc.us, and MatchForce, www.matchforce.org, are valuable resources available to assist local companies with military business opportunities. The local defense industries bolster the economy to a valuable extent.

The Sandhills Military Wives Club is a supportive group in and around Moore County. As a club they get together to have coffee, share advice, to work out, have girls night, for wine tastings, to enjoy book clubs and to have fun with the kids. All military wives, active duty or retired, are eligible to become a member. Military wives are also busy working and volunteering in the community, and a number of have started new businesses.

As a way of saying thanks to our troops, some local businesses offer military discounts. Moore County has local chapters of Military Officers Association of America and Sentinels of Freedom, organizations whose missions are "to provide life-changing opportunities for men and women of the U.S. Armed Forces who have suffered severe injuries and need the support of grateful communities to realize their goals and dreams." Several military appreciation events are held each year.

Our close proximity makes it easy for military men and women to serve their country during the day, and come home for dinner at night. Many grow to love Moore County while in service, and decide to stick around for retirement or to start new businesses. There's really not a better place to be stationed while serving in the US military.

Retirement

Moore County's small town atmosphere, proximity to major metropolitan areas and airports, and mild winters make it an ideal spot to retire. One in five residents are sixty-five or older.

The Moore County Department of Aging's Senior Enrichment Center is a fun place for those fifty and older to meet and stay active. The Center offers cooking classes, arts and crafts workshops, line dancing lessons and many other exciting and educational pursuits. Their nutrition program consists of both Diner's Club meals and home delivery, is available to residents sixty and older and is prepared by a nutrition caterer. Individual and group exercise is also convenient thanks to the onsite fitness center, which is equipped with both cardio and strength training equipment.

The Sandhills Community College Center for Creative Retirement offers programs specifically designed to mentally and physically engage retirees. Fall and spring semesters are free to those sixty-five and older and Summer Academy attendees are charged a nominal fee. Choices of classes and lectures include Financial Planning, Healthy Living, Master Gardeners Lecture Series and several other topics of interest.

For those interested in retirement communities, assisted living offerings are abundant in Moore County. Retirees can opt for independent living or 24-hour care nursing homes. Options range from affordable apartments and single-unit homes to patio homes and town houses. These are beautiful, lively communities surrounded by towering pine trees and lush greenery. The wealth of world class medical facilities ensure easy access when needed.

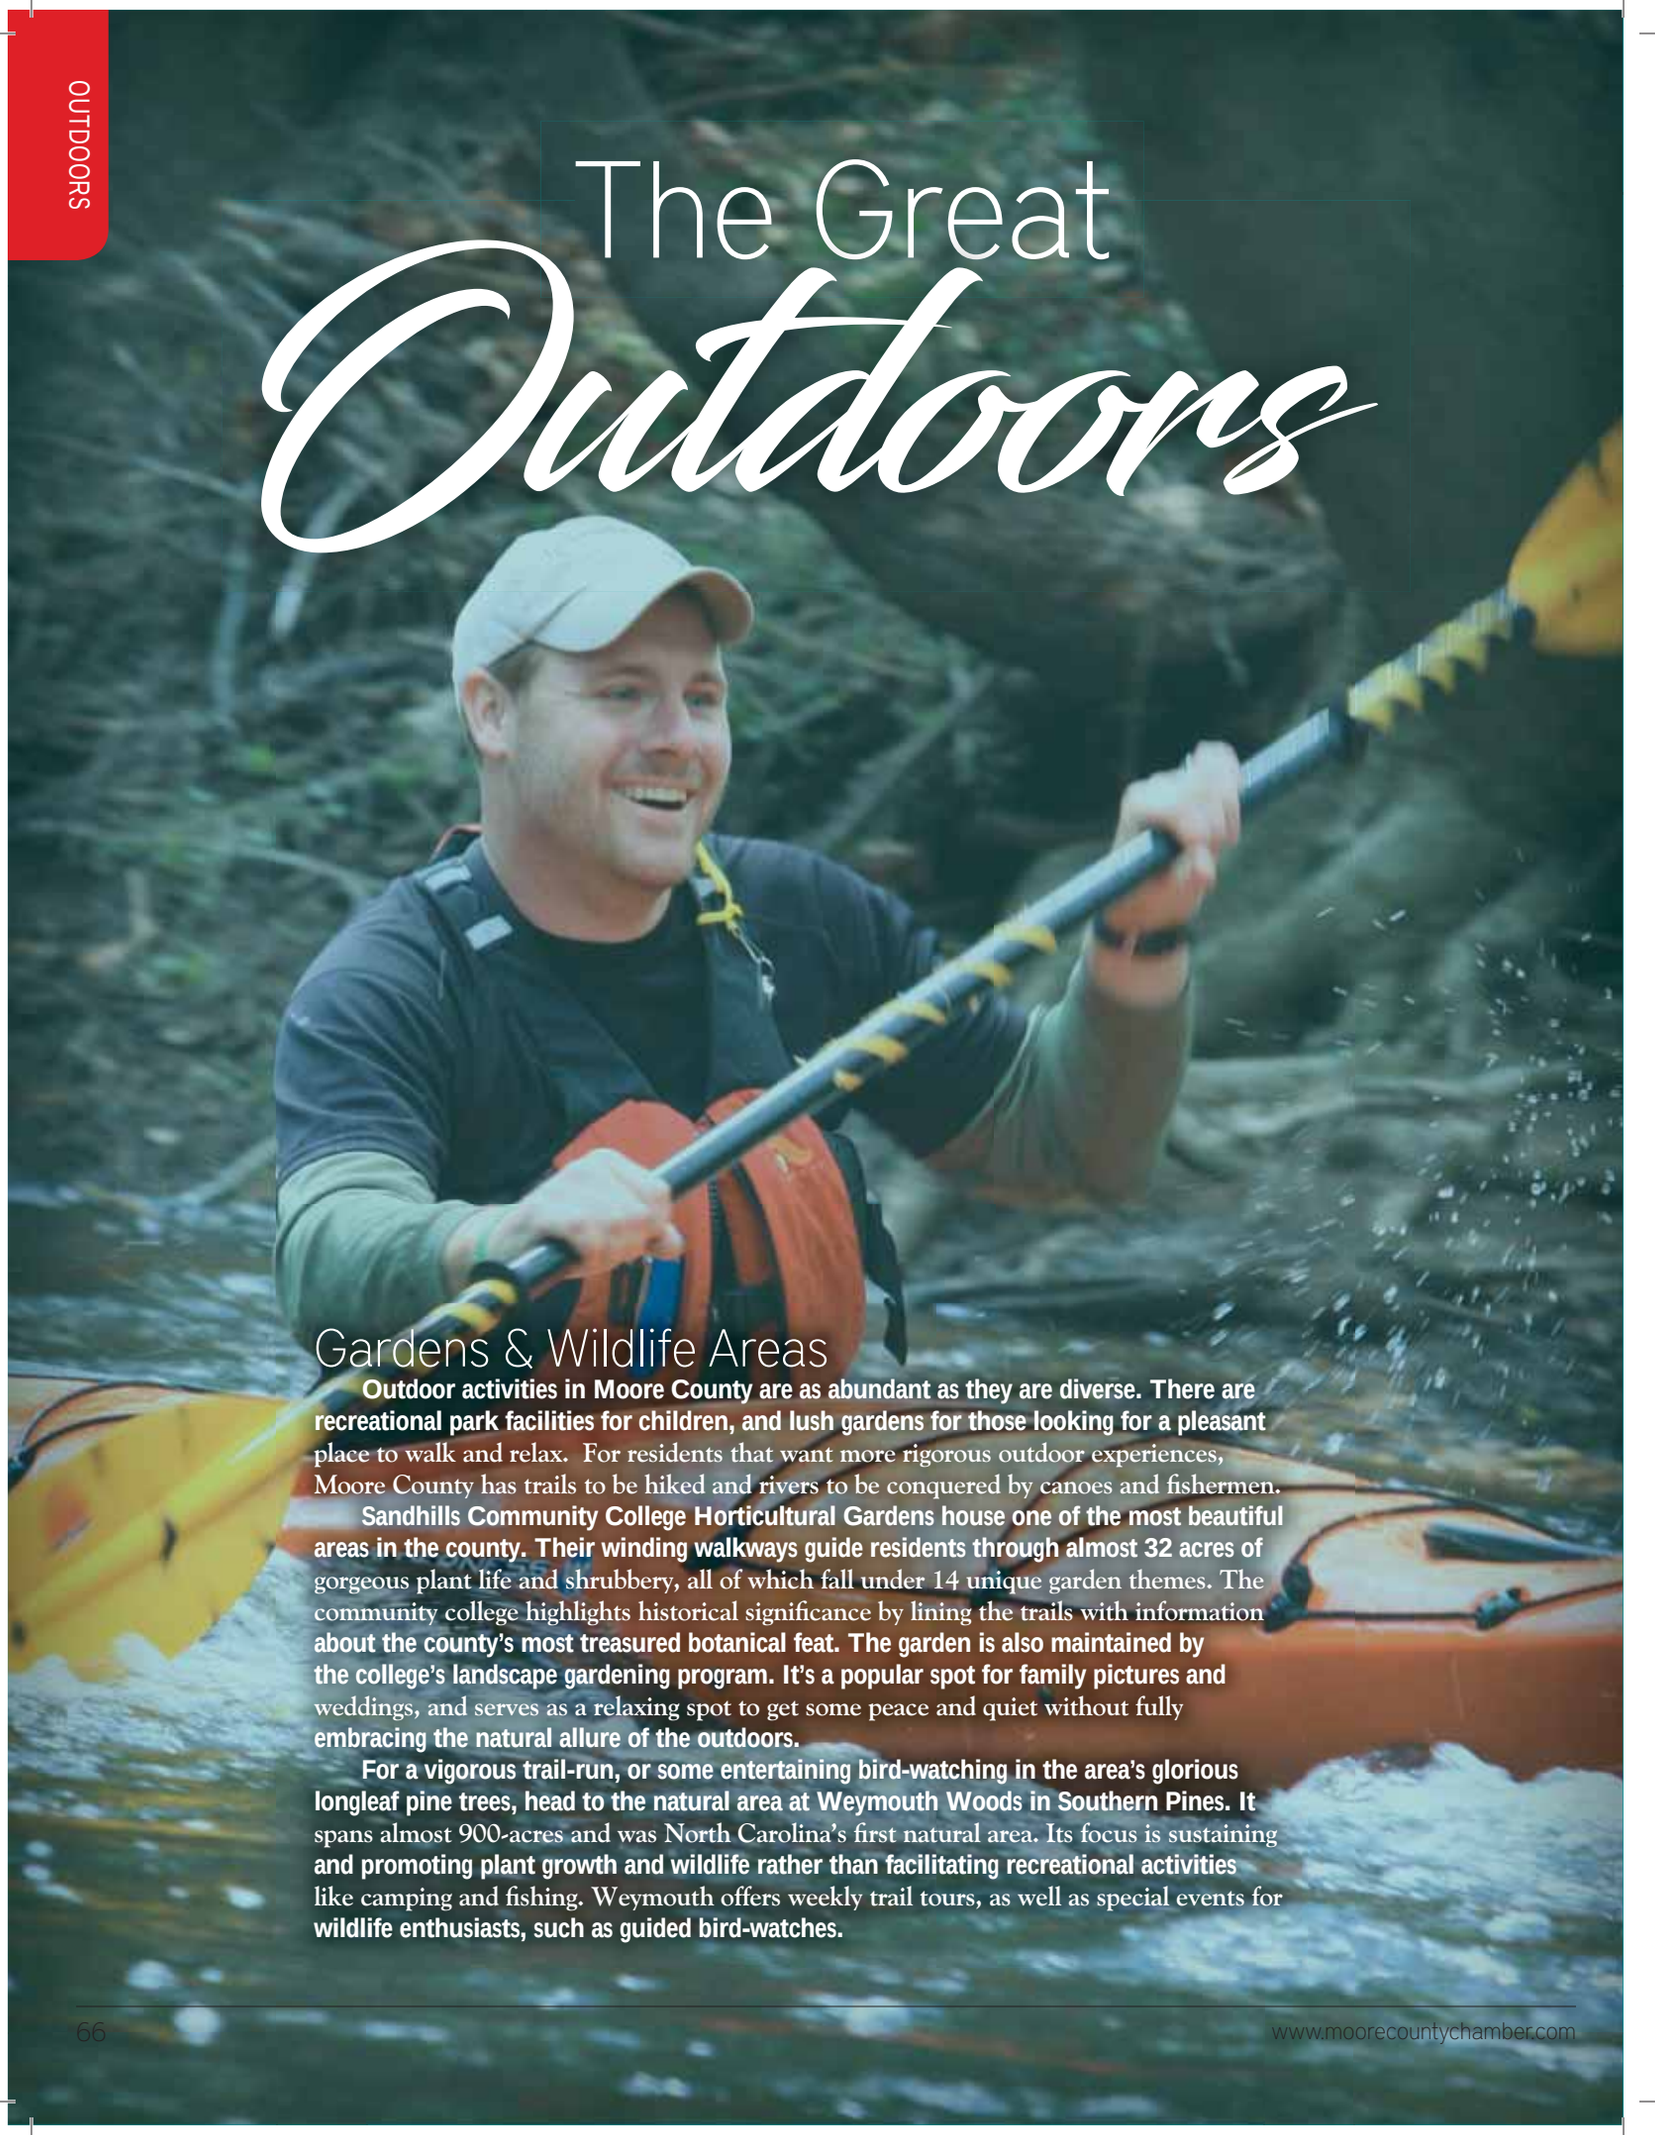
The Great Outdoors



Gardens & Wildlife Areas

Outdoor activities in Moore County are as abundant as they are diverse. There are recreational park facilities for children, and lush gardens for those looking for a pleasant place to walk and relax. For residents that want more rigorous outdoor experiences, Moore County has trails to be hiked and rivers to be conquered by canoes and fishermen.

Sandhills Community College Horticultural Gardens house one of the most beautiful areas in the county. Their winding walkways guide residents through almost 32 acres of gorgeous plant life and shrubbery, all of which fall under 14 unique garden themes. The community college highlights historical significance by lining the trails with information about the county's most treasured botanical feat. The garden is also maintained by the college's landscape gardening program. It's a popular spot for family pictures and weddings, and serves as a relaxing spot to get some peace and quiet without fully embracing the natural allure of the outdoors.

For a vigorous trail-run, or some entertaining bird-watching in the area's glorious longleaf pine trees, head to the natural area at Weymouth Woods in Southern Pines. It spans almost 900-acres and was North Carolina's first natural area. Its focus is sustaining and promoting plant growth and wildlife rather than facilitating recreational activities like camping and fishing. Weymouth offers weekly trail tours, as well as special events for wildlife enthusiasts, such as guided bird-watches.

Perhaps the most popular outdoor area in Moore County is Southern Pines Reservoir Park. Exercise runs rampant around the reservoir's 95-acre lake. The man-made trails are great for bikers and runners that want challenging terrain. Residents can get exercise on the lake too. Kayaking is easily accessible, and fishermen can canoe on the lake for some quiet pole reeling. The ongoing Deep River Trails project hopes to establish a series of cycling routes connecting the reservoir to eight other counties, spanning over 350 miles of trails.

There are several other lakes in Aberdeen, Carthage and Whispering Pines that are open to fishermen and kayakers. Head north towards Robbins to kayak and canoe down Bear Creek, Cabin Creek or the Deep River, which also offers river races during the year.

Equestrian & Public Parks

Those looking for something more competitive can check out one of the 18 Moore County public parks. Most have playgrounds for children, as well as public sports facilities for those interested in baseball, disc golf, soccer, tennis and more. Several of the counties municipalities have leagues and teams for adults, and the Moore County Recreation Department ensures kids a place to play and be active through their teenage years.

Not only were the Sandhills made for excellent golf; they were made for excellent horseback-riding too. The equestrian opportunities are as expansive as they are quality.

The most recent large-scale development is the Carolina Horse Park. It offers over 250-acres of national competition venues, and its non-profit status ensures local equestrian enthusiasts preservation of recreational horse land. The park hosts the annual Stoneybrook Steeplechase which recently celebrated its 63rd year and is one the premier national equestrian events. Local equestrian loyalists kept the event alive after competition founder, Michael "Mickey" G. Walsh, passed away in 1993. The park also hosted the American Eventing Championship its first three years in existence. It's the only facility in the mid-Atlantic region able to host multiple competition disciplines at the championship level, and the organization brings an estimated $1.5 million dollars into the local economy.

Another prominent local equestrian facility is the Pinehurst Harness Track, which covers over 100 acres of land and has 20 barns. It's a popular spot for winter training because it has sand and clay tracks, which also make it conducive to host other types of events, such as dog races and polocrosse.

Farmer's Markets

Ecological developments during the past few years have pushed local economies to "go green." Moore County recognizes the value of such initiatives, and has implemented several plans to support this transition. The county's Farm to Table cooperative has expanded, partnering with local farmers to not only bring fresh produce and goods to consumers, but local restaurants as well. Farm to Table has already brought together over 1,200 county residents who subscribe to receive produce that's gathered from at least 30 local farmers.

The new initiative is called Farm to Institution, and the goal is to encourage local restaurant owners to use the same produce in their kitchens that consumers enjoy using in their own. This, combined with Moore County's already active farmer's markets, creates local environmental awareness that enables a healthy lifestyle, and supports the local economy.

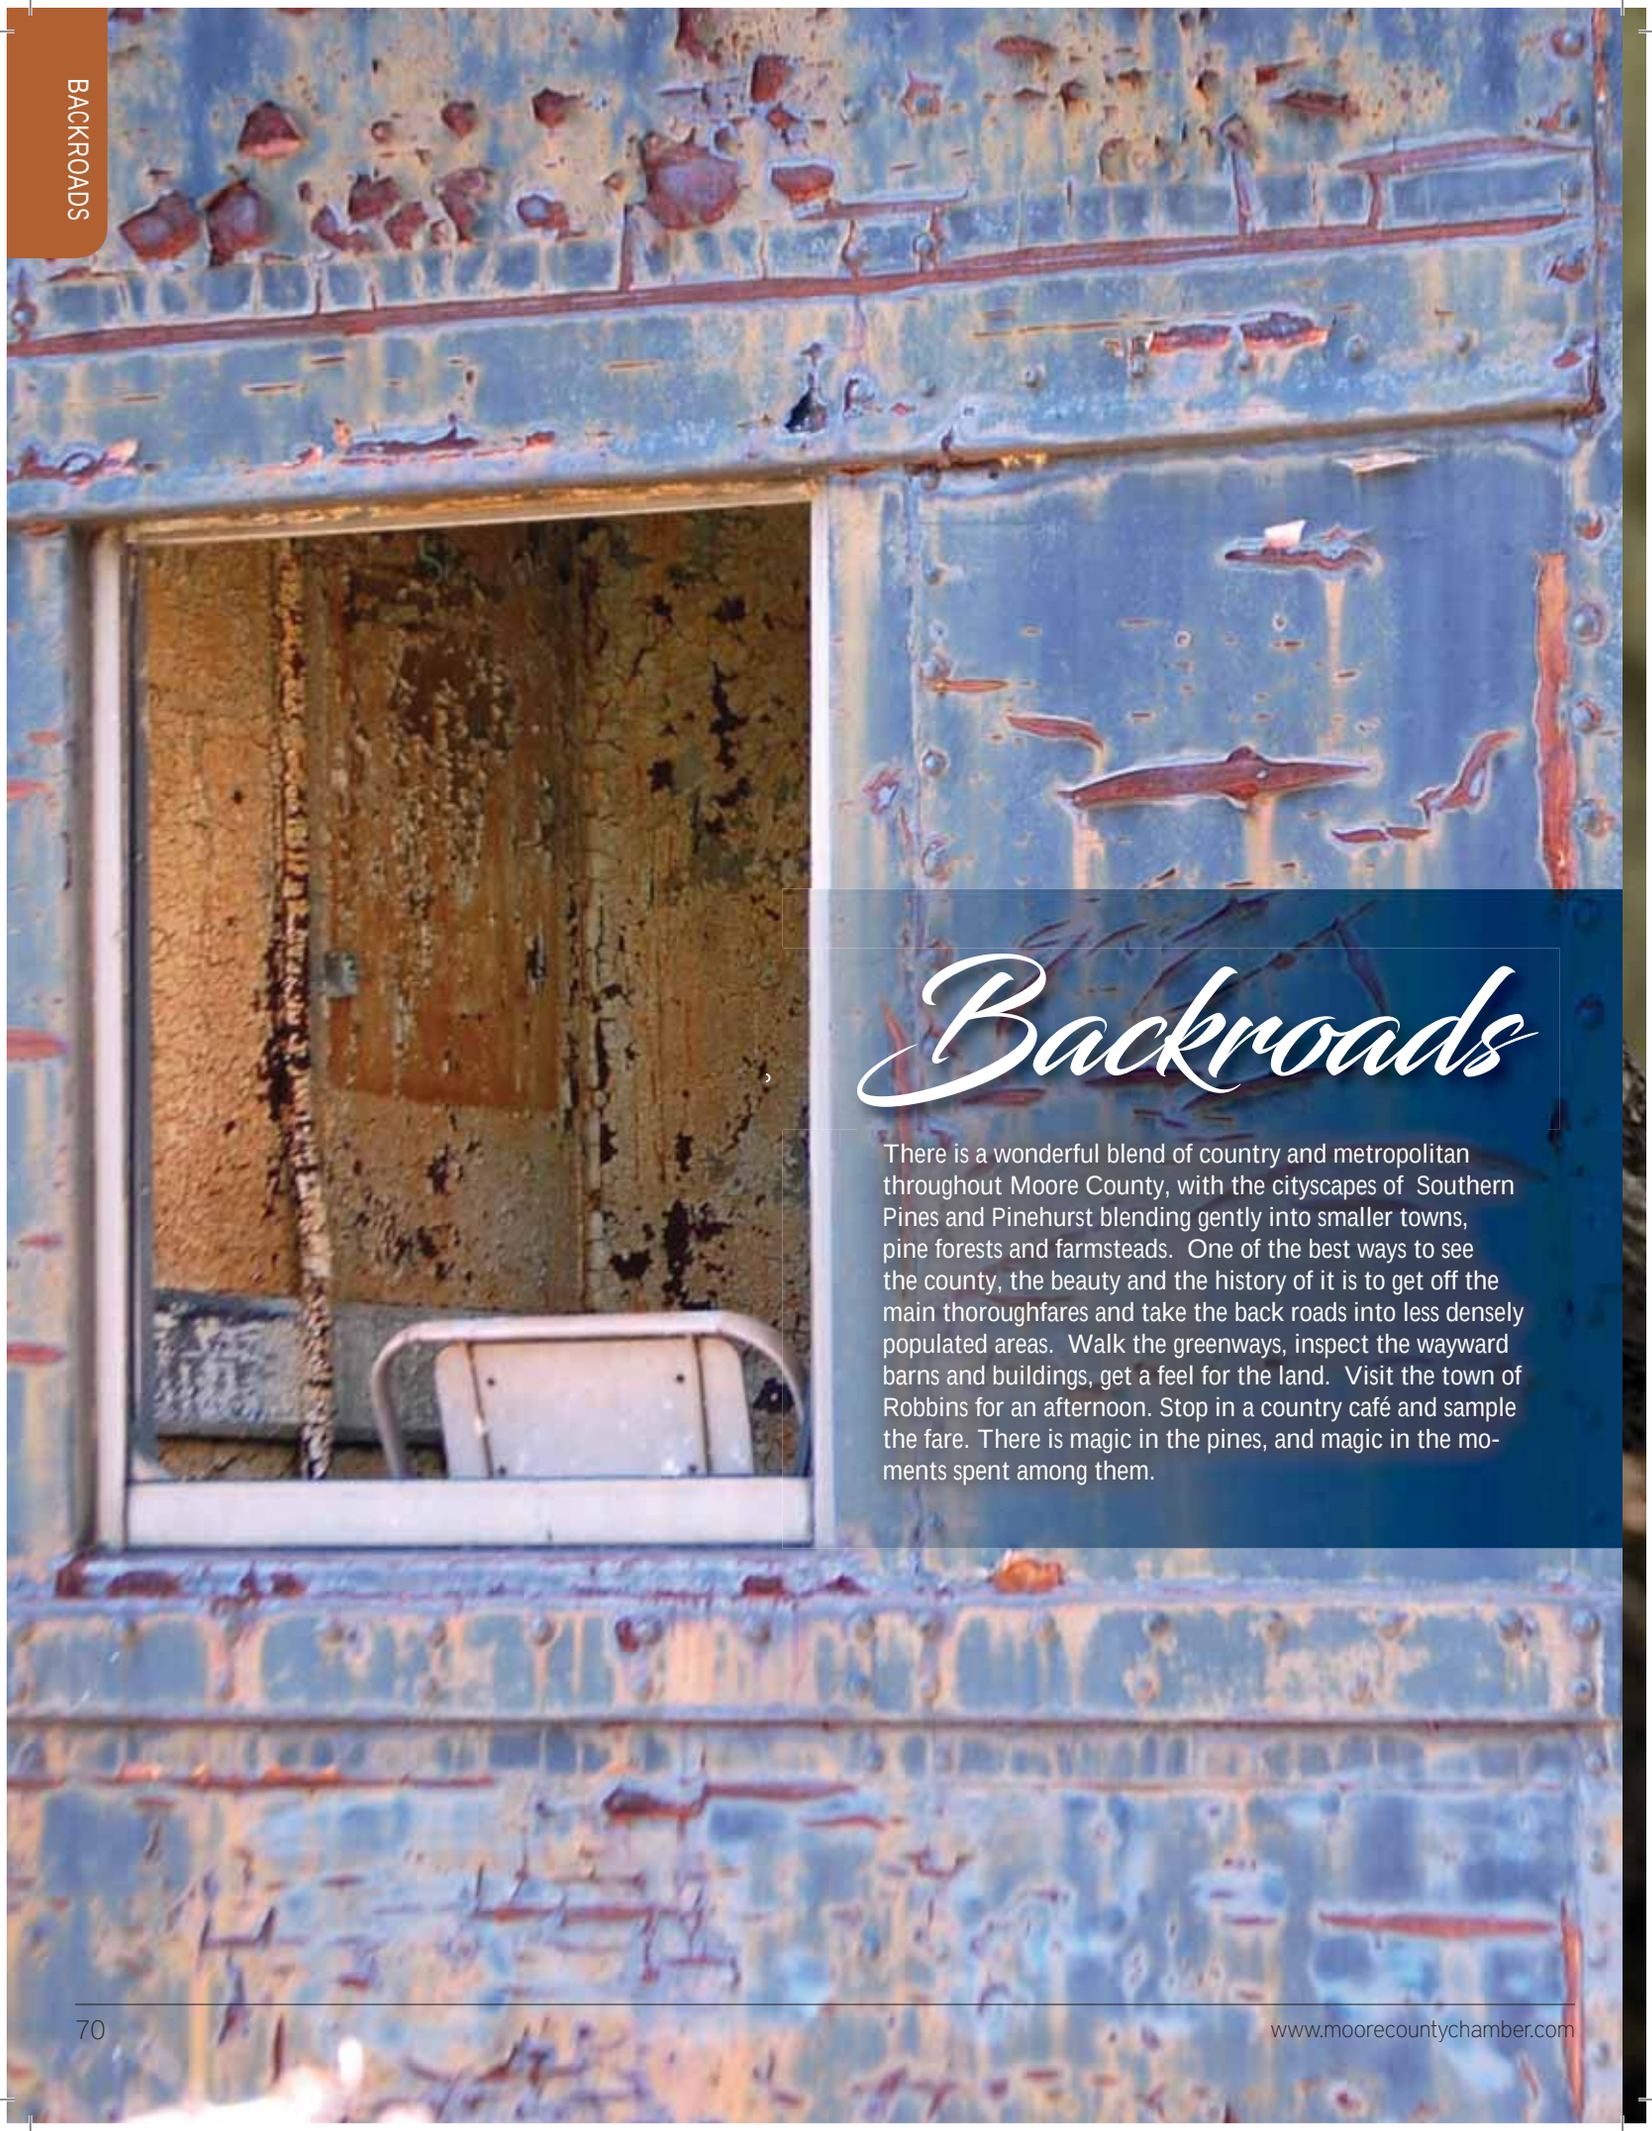
Blessing of the Hounds

For the past 100 years, fox hunting and the Moore County Hounds have been a fixture in Moore County, fixed in the local culture almost as long as golf. Author James Boyd is credited with starting the hunting practice and subsequent "Horse Country" that developed after he built his home, Weymouth, and invited friends and colleagues to come down and build farms to winter their horses. Now there are dozens of majestic farms in the area around Southern Pines.

A unique annual event called the Blessing of the Hounds is ceremoniously performed in a large field just outside of Southern Pines as a prelude to a hunt. Riders dress in their best red and black coats, with horses groomed and fitted with their shiniest saddles and tack. Several thousand people attend, some tailgating for hours, as the horses and dressed riders prepare to take off. The Moore County Hounds is a privately owned pack of dogs that board nearby. On Thanksgiving Day, the dogs get the blessing, and the visitors get a beautiful vision of a time lost to most.



Backroads

There is a wonderful blend of country and metropolitan throughout Moore County, with the cityscapes of Southern Pines and Pinehurst blending gently into smaller towns, pine forests and farmsteads. One of the best ways to see the county, the beauty and the history of it is to get off the main thoroughfares and take the back roads into less densely populated areas. Walk the greenways, inspect the wayward barns and buildings, get a feel for the land. Visit the town of Robbins for an afternoon. Stop in a country café and sample the fare. There is magic in the pines, and magic in the moments spent among them.

Unique Ecology

One unique aspect to what makes the Sandhills area of North Carolina what it is has to do with its geological history. About 50 million years ago, unbeknownst to anyone but sea creatures, the shores of the Atlantic Ocean pounded a shoreline that ran right through the middle of what is now Moore County. In fact there is a trace of this residue of history that runs from Virginia, through the Carolinas and Georgia, all the way down to Columbus, Ga. Approximately 25 miles in width, this sandy interjection outlines the ancient shoreline of the Southeastern U.S., marking an east-west transition from the Piedmont to the Coastal Plains of each state.

From a flora and fauna standpoint that's important, because it's in these transition zones where life flourishes in unique abundance, mixing plants and animals from the two distinct regions. The soil of the Piedmont is red clay, that of the Coastal Plain loamy and loose. In the sandy soils of the Sandhills are found both in pockets, creating niches for plants.

The soil of the Sandhills isn't soil at all, its sand which goes down many feet deep. The pine tree proliferates here because of the deep tap root, which reaches down to the clay soils beneath for water and nourishment once the rains quickly drain through the sandy surface. Hardwoods have shallower root systems, and don't adapt as well to prolonged dry conditions.

Native plants in the area tend to be suited for semi-arid climates, rather than the moistness farther east and west. Only in the transition zones will you find native cacti and yucca plants growing wild.

Also due to it's location, Moore County is right in the middle of a transition zone for northern and southern species. For many, this is the southern extreme for northern plants and animals, and the northern extreme for southern-rooted life forms.

Throw in a relatively close proximity to the Atlantic coast and the flyways they represent, and the result is a rich mixture of birds, plants and other animals. A simple walk in the woods becomes an adventure in seeing the tiny ground flowers that abound in nature. A visit to a local lake might yield a sighting of anything from a loon to a double-breasted cormorant, a bald eagle to the tiny lesser grebe. This is truly a year-round bird watchers paradise and a delight to anyone who truly enjoys the outdoors.

Golfing

Golf is and will continue to be the aspect of life in the Sandhills that echoes literally around the world. While the US Open Championship to return the Pinehurst #2 in 2024, there will literally be thousands of other tournaments played on its greens and hundreds of thousands of people coming to the area for the sole purpose of savoring the renowned courses in America's "Home of Golf". With more than 40 courses, most of them semi-private, there is a fair test for every player's level, and a favorite hole, view and course from every visit. Pinehurst No. 2 is on every golfer's bucket list.

Golf contributes greatly to the local quality of life because those visitors stay in hotels, eat in restaurants and shop while they are here. There is an old saying in the sport, "If you play golf, you are my friend." Golf has been a friend to this area for more than a hundred years, and the sport, more than any single thing, put Moore County on the world map.
