HISTORY OF THE CHAMBER

Learn how the Moore County Chamber of Commerce was established and where we are headed.

History tells a story of the first ‘chamber of commerce’ and how it dates to Roman Times, 1599 in Marseilles, France. The State of New York stakes claim to the first American chamber of commerce in 1768. By facilitating relationships between English colonists and merchants, the New York Chamber paved the way for businesses to be self-sustained. The very first members of the New York Chamber consisted of a wholesaler/banker, a sea captain, and an auctioneer to name a few. They established commerce and trade, setting a precedence for all chambers to follow. Today the same mission exists for the Moore County Chamber of Commerce (the MCC); to foster a ‘Vibrant Business Community’.

In 1967 a group of 20 visionaries anticipated the evolution of our business community and choose to incorporate the Chamber. Since our creation the MCC has remained involved in local advocacy initiatives and strives to provide the most accurate position for the business community. Understanding the value of your time, the MCC Board and staff, work on behalf of the community to maintain and improve the quality-of-life Moore County has to offer. In addition, the Chamber regularly provides programming to help our businesses grow and prosper.

The MCC has evolved since inception and now more than ever the Chamber is focusing on new initiatives to support our membership. The demographic of our membership is diverse. Our County businesses are comprised of all shapes and sizes. We have a strong relationship with the largest employers in the county, to those members who are self-employed philanthropists. We recognize there isn’t a ‘one size fits all’ for our area businesses. After a successful half century, the Chamber looks forward to continuing to connect business and community.

After more than 18 months of planning, deliberation, and construction the MCC Staff worked diligently to open a new collaborative workspace for the business community. The Krausen Building located at the corner of New York Ave & Bennett Street, by Spring 2021, will offer state of the art office space for daily, or weekly use, as well as a modern conference room, effortlessly nestled in the pines above the Southern Pines Growler Company. Stop in for a quite place to work, while enjoying a nice pint of craft beer from downstairs. For information on use of this space, please contact MCC Staff for more information. (910) 692-3926 or info@moorecountychamber.com.

The Chamber looks forward to fostering all the new relationships we started with members this year, and we are sincerely grateful for the members who have guide our path in the previous years. We are ready to grow expansively with all members, large and small. The future is bright here in Moore County, join us, as we revolutionize the business term ‘Chamber of Commerce!'

Black walnut is prized by woodworkers for its rich color, durability and grain.

In time, the natural wood also develops a lustrous patina. In a small workshop behind O’Donnell’s Pub in downtown Southern Pines, Jake Kerr’s Welding Wood is shaping giant slabs of locally sourced black walnut into custom table tops. The tree, like the carpenter, is destined for a new purpose.

Almost two years ago, Kerr loaded his U-Haul with his tools, a few duffel bags full of clothes, and about $2,000 in steel and wood, and hit the road back to Southern Pines. He was just out of the Army, fresh out of a sixmonth trial run as a financial advisor in New York City — a job he hated — and ready to invest full-time in a hobby he had pursued all his life.

“I did really well in the Army. I was a Major, and had reached a point where I could write my own ticket. But I had already deployed a million times. I had missed all my kids’ births, all their birthdays — if I had taken the next job in the Army I would’ve seen them even less,” he said. “I had done all the things I wanted to do in the Army, and I wanted to do something new.”

Kerr learned welding as a kid from his father, who entered the trade after leaving the Marine Corps. While still on active duty, he began working with wood, and eventually started putting the two together. With that, he found a mix of art and function that set him apart in business.

“I try to keep everything with a local story line,” he said. That means working with trees cut and milled in Cameron, designing custom pieces for individuals and businesses throughout Moore County, and hiring friends, many of them firefighters with side gigs, when he can.

Kerr discovered Southern Pines when he was stationed at Fort Bragg before being discharged from the military. When he went looking for a location for his woodworking and welding business, he reached out to Pat O’Donnell, his old landlord.

Kerr asked if he could take over the tumbledown garage he had been using for a workspace behind Pat’s pub. After installing a new roof, new windows, and a new door, Welding Wood was born. But he’s already set his sights on more space and is building a new workshop on his newly acquired five-acre property.

And downtime is not really in his vocabulary, so Kerr also keeps a consulting job on the side, working with Spring Lake based Sherpa Six on military and government contracts.

“I stay tied in with that and it’s cool because I’m still contributing back to the military. We are taking stuff we learned over a decade or more in the field and putting it into something new,” he said.

Kerr said growing up, he never wanted to do anything else except to join the military.

“I have about four or five best friends. We all went to West Point Prep and then West Point together. We all joined the rugby team, we all became Army Rangers and we went on the same deployments,” Kerr said.

Today, they all live in Moore County, which he said has also been the ideal place to start a business.

“This is a good place to be,” he said, “because in a small town, word of mouth goes around fast.”

The first few months were brutal, he admits. He sold everything he owned to get his living costs to the bare minimum. Kerr also decided early on he would not keep any inventory, instead relying entirely on custom orders.

Welding Wood’s first big job was a 10-foot long, 4-foot wide conference table for a military-connected training company.

On a whim, Kerr showed them a photo of a table with an epoxy river running down the middle; they loved it.

After that came the sign outside the Leadmine on Pennsylvania Avenue and tables at O’Donnell’s Pub. Then came the custom “live edge” bar at Hatchet Brewing, and the black walnut bar and table tops that are destined for James Creek Cider House’s new tasting room in Cameron.

Kerr said his creative process requires strategy, and his goal is to cast a wide net in custom work. He uses no blueprints or directions, each creation is completely unique.

“It’s a matter of laying it all out and using my vision of what I want it to look like. I will picture in my head what I want the finished piece to be,” he said. “The more products I put out, the more I am solidifying my style. That is why I like custom.”

When you name your business for the small town where you work, it makes sense to throw out the welcome mat where most of its people congregate.

For Southern Pines Brewing Co., that means opening a new downtown taproom at the corner of West Pennsylvania Avenue and North Bennett Street. Owner Micah Niebauer has signed the lease to take over the soon-to-be vacated Southern Pines Growler space.

Meanwhile, Gerry Bateman and Brandi Underwood are waiting on the finishing touches to their “super-sized” Growler taproom and outdoor patio one block south on Bennett Street. Their new three-story building will also be home to the Moore County Chamber of Commerce.

“We are excited to be taking the corner space. That is such an incredible spot and it has a beautiful, outdoor patio,” Niebauer said. “We will be able to enjoy the downtown area like we’ve never been able to do at the brewery.”

“It’s been fun to jump into this as fast as I can,” he added, noting his optimism opening date will be around July 1.

Heath Trigg of Heritage Flag Co., who designed Southern Pines Brewing’s original taproom bar, tables and the whiskey-barrel American flag that inspired an entirely new business venture, is handling the taproom renovation.

“I was tickled and honored that Heath was willing to take on this project. Our first taproom is so beautiful because of his work. From where we started six years ago, I’m really excited to carry that through to this new space,” Niebauer said.

The production brewery taproom on Air Tool Drive in Southern Pines will also remain open.

“When we started, our goal was to be here for our market. We make beer for the people where we live and beer that they want to drink,” he added. “Our original concept was ‘rooted in the community,’ and it still is today.”

True North

A former Green Beret with the 3rd Special Forces Group at Fort Bragg, Niebauer partnered up with John Brumer and Jason Ginos to co-found Southern Pines Brewing Co.

“Start-ups are a team sport. I could not have started this brewery without the three of us coming together: start-ups are a team sport. It took all three of our blood, sweat and capital to bring the brewery into being.”

“It’s been six years. Most of my friends have not had the same job for six years and people’s lives change,” he said. “Your business is something you are married to and the people in it.”

Brumer left the company in 2017 and is “living this best life,” Niebauer said, surfing in Nicaragua and skiing in the mountains of South America.

“A goal of his was to buy one-way tickets and that’s what he has been doing. He is living the adventure.”

For Ginos, his decision to depart the business last December was something the two friends discussed through most of 2019, Niebauer said.

“We were fortunate when we started the business that we had a good operating agreement. We were three guys with three families and we had this viewpoint at the beginning,” he added.

“Before we committed our assets and money, we talked about ‘your true North.’

A Compelling Story

“We had no divorce clause in the agreement. It was always to be a voluntary decision to leave or a voluntary decision to stay in this business, forever. It was important to us to empower

A Dream Renewed: Cardinal Park Reopens in Pinebluff

BY LAURA DOUGLASS
Reprinted with Permission from The Pilot

There is freshly poured white sand on the beach and nostalgia is in the air at Cardinal Park, a newly reopened recreational facility in Pinebluff that has served generations of families.

Established in the early 1960s by the late Felton Capel, Sr. and his wife, Jean, the privately run park offered lake swimming, fishing and vast picnic areas where local African-American families were welcome to gather.

“I feel close to my father when I am there. I feel his presence a lot,” said Mitch Capel, who is the guiding force behind the rebirth of the Cardinal Park, Motel and Recreation Center. “It is a beautiful park.”

Last Saturday he held a soft-opening for family and friends that attracted hundreds of well-wishers to spend the day.

Capel was seven-years-old when his parents acquired the property on U.S. 1 south, in 1962, where they established Cardinal Park.

The elder Capel was a businessman who dedicated his time and talents to countless civic organizations, and was a benefactor of the community and education throughout the region. But he is perhaps best known for his role in helping to peacefully desegregate restaurants, movie theaters, golf courses and bowling alleys in Moore County with his good friend Voit Gilmore by his side.

Capel also served on the Southern Pines Council for 12 years and during that period, helped successfully lead a $35,000 bond referendum to build the West Southern Pines Pool Park, the first such facility for blacks.

But it was in Pinebluff where he created a place far more personal and special.

“There were few places where African-Americans could go swimming. He bought the land as a place to hold his sales meetings, but then everybody wanted to come here to have cookouts,” Capel said. “My father realized he could turn it into a business.”

Keno Livingston, Cardinal Park’s cook, said he vividly remembers being in the backseat of a car as it pulled up to the entrance gates on summer days.

“This is one of the best spots in the world. You would look out and see the beach,” he said. “It was wonderful.”

For the next few decades, Cardinal Park was a popular recreation destination and also served as homebase for Capel’s primary business, Century Associates of North Carolina; however, Capel struggled with health issues in his later years and the park fell into disrepair and was shuttered.

Now or Never
Four years ago, Mitch Capel moved back to Moore County to care for his parents. No matter where he went in town, people would approach him to ask about the park.

“They wanted to know when it would open again. But I had a lot of irons in the fire with my work, and being a professional storyteller, and taking care of my parents. It consumed all of my time, but it was also the greatest thing I could have ever done,” he said.

Finally this past spring he stopped by the park for some basic yard upkeep and decided it was a now-or-never situation.

Mother Nature was taking over. I had to either let it go or figure out a way to make it work,” he said.

When he rallied his family and friends, the response was immediate and overwhelming: everybody wanted to be a part of the park’s revitalization.

One local woman told Capel she simply wanted to be out of her house, and has shown up every day at 7 a.m. ready to paint. Another former neighbor of Capel’s, a friend he had not spoken to in more than 30 years, offered to donate the beach sand when he reached out for pricing.

The 36-acre rolling parkland includes a 9-acre springfed lake, those left behind if anyone ever decided they wanted to leave.”

Niebauer said photos of the three founders are still on the wall of the taproom at their production brewery on Air Tool Drive in Southern Pines, and they won’t be coming down.

“What was so compelling and what people loved about our story is we were three guys from one team in the Special Forces. That hasn’t changed. We all have left our marks on this business.

“This brewery exists because the three of us did this. I can’t tell you how happy and blessed I am. I feel fortunate that our friendship and respect for each other was strong enough for us to go through these transitions and for the business to survive. Jason and John have gone on with their lives and I’m still here making beer.”

Tapping ‘Together We Are Moore’

There’s a new pilsner lager going in the tanks at Southern Pines Brewing this week. Called Together We Are Moore, the name is inspired by the “shop local” initiative the Moore County Chamber of Commerce launched last year.

“It is such a great slogan. With all that has happened with the coronavirus, we’ve been racking our heads with how we could help our community. The service industry has been hit so hard,” Niebauer said. “Beer is our way to help.”
The specialty brew will be sold exclusively wholesale for $1 a keg or case to local retail establishments. When customers purchase a pint or a four-pack to-go, all of the proceeds will directly support that business.

Longtime collaborator Craig Morrison of Valhalla Tattoo in downtown Southern Pines is designing the artwork for the cans with graphic artist Kira Schoenfelder of Schon Design.

“We want to let our local bars and restaurants know it will be available,” he said, anticipating a July launch date.

The work has not been without challenge. The buildings are older and need quite a bit of updating, in particular the restrooms and the five-room motel at the front of the property. In addition, Capel had all of his tools stolen from the grounds.

But he is optimistic and inspired by what he sees each day.

“I am doing this to honor my father. It is his legacy. I can visualize what he saw when he created this park,” Capel said.

Looking ahead, he plans to reopen the concession stand on weekends, once permits are in-hand, and expanding the motel with a commercial kitchen. The campground area will eventually have hook-ups for RVs.

“I hope to have live music on the lake and maybe get a big movie screen. We will see,” he said.

“There have been so many great people that have come through here and now they and their children are coming back,” he added. “It is a generational thing. People want their children to enjoy the same experiences they did, and this is a great place to get kids outside.”

Cardinal Park is located on U.S. 1 south, at 129 Cardinal Park Drive in Pinebluff. The facility is open everyday 9 a.m. to dark. A lifeguard is on-duty at the lake beach swimming area on summer weekends.

Day use fees are $10 per person, and $5 for children under five years, and include all fishing privileges and all other on-site activities. For more detailed information, contact Cardinal Park at (910) 494-0696.

Our Towns

Moore County is as much a charming southern community as it is a northern utopia. Diverse life style options are a result of the area’s unique geography that’s claimed fame for the world’s greatest golf.

Before Moore County became known for its golf, it was known for its agriculture, textile and long-leaf pine industries, and major railways that transported the resulting commodities out of the county.

When Donald Ross came to the United States at the beginning of the 20th century, he changed the future of the area’s economy. Ross’ innovative golf course designs took the area by storm, which affected the cultural structure of the whole county. People traveling through Moore County came to envy the golf resorts and authentic southern hospitality, and tourism established itself as a plausible industry.

The northern half of the county has retained some of its “glory day” fervor by continuing to exist as a collection of small southern towns. Farmers and landowners upkeep the vast country landscapes that facilitate the area’s popular agriculture and equestrian industries.

The southern half of the county is made up of suburban housing communities that value small town living. It’s largely made up of medical professionals and retirees that support local businesses and maintain the golfing industry’s top-notch status.

Moore County residents can live on country backroads as easily as they can live in housing communities that are closer to the county’s urban hub. Whether it’s a stroll through the town, or admiring the countryside in a pick-up truck, Moore County has something for everyone.

Although more popular at big events and festivals, live entertainment in Moore County is a regular occurrence, and many events and festivals postponed or found creative ways to heed COVID-19 restrictions in 2020. Residents have opportunities throughout the year to catch a performance of the Carolina Philharmonic Orchestra, the North Carolina Symphony and the Arts Council hosts a Classical Concert Series that brings in talent from all over the world.

For those interested in more contemporary styles of music, Moore County has regular concert series such as First Friday in Southern Pines, Live after Five in the Village of Pinehurst and shows at The Rooster’s Wife in Aberdeen. Many of these performances offer free admission, and are presented by the county’s best venues, such as the Sunrise Theater in Southern Pines. In the spring and summer, artists perform outside to accommodate larger crowds and take advantage of nicer weather.

There are also festivals throughout the year that support local bluegrass bands and southern rock groups, such as the annual Buggy Festival in Carthage and Farmer’s Day in Robbins.

For those who fancy live theater, Broadway shows, ballet and world-renowned speakers the Given Performing Arts Center at the nearby University of North Carolina at Pembroke offers access to them on one of the finest stages in the state. The newly renovated Bradshaw Performing Arts Center at Sandhills Community College brings a variety of theater and the Ruth Pauley Lecture series. This lecture series, sponsored by the college, the Moore County League of Women Voters, the American Association of University Women, and Moore County Schools, introduces noted speakers to the Sandhills. The goal of the lectures is to deepen understanding of key issues and encourage public participation in their resolution.

A new performing arts center, Encore!, opened in 2019 in downtown Southern Pines to offer theater, dance and music instruction and performances.

Moore County isn’t lacking in the literary department either. The Weymouth Center for the Arts and Humanities became home to the North Carolina Literary Hall of Fame in 1996. This exciting cultural trademark was made possible by former Weymouth Center resident, James Boyd. He made his living writing and publishing, and has been accredited with launching the “Southern Literary Renaissance” in the 1920s and 30s. Boyd’s former study – now known as the Boyd Room – is used to host book readings featuring North Carolina’s most talented authors.

The county’s artistic flare would not be complete without its historical pottery scene. Residents travel across the county to browse the sprawling selection of clay-made crafts in Cameron and Robbins. In fact, Cameron hosts the biannual Antique and Collectibles Fair to celebrate the vast number of local potters and antique shops.

Moore County’s art scene entertains the classics and recognizes its southern roots. From traditional art forms to some good ol’ bluegrass, residents can engage in a variety of cultural opportunities throughout the year. Contact local event venues or municipalities for cancellations or new procedures due to CDC restrictions regarding COVID-19.
Maestro Michael David Wolff leads the contagious Carolina Philharmonic through a series of concerts each season, each one different from the rest. Shows can have a classical feel, or it might be Latin, jazz, or Broadway flavored another night. In addition to acclaimed guest star performances, they have a mission to teach children to play music, and touch the lives of thousands of school children each year. www.carolinaphil.org

The Moore Philharmonic Orchestra is another option for those who seek orchestral music, and they stage four events per year. This community orchestra is comprised of and designed to advance students as well as adults in the Moore County community. www.mporchestra.com

The Arts Council of Moore County offers its Classical Concert series and Heart n’ Soul of Jazz concert. The Classical Concert series is a four-part series that brings a different classical artist to Moore County each month. www.mooreart.org. Contact local event venues for cancellations or new procedures due to CDC restrictions regarding COVID-19.

For the performer, The Moore County Choral Society offers a community chorus that performances bi-annually and accepts new members throughout the year. Similarly, Moore County Concert Band is a local organization that fosters the tradition of military and concert band music through a 60 person ensemble. moorecountyband.org, moorecountychoralsociety.org

If there’s a place that loves their pets more than we do, we aren’t sure where it is. Be it a cat, dog, horse or even something more exotic, you’ll find businesses and services around the community that will help keep your pet happy.

In the fun department, Moore County boasts many local dog parks, some that require a membership that ensures the park is maintained and is safe. If you prefer to keep the pup on a leash, enjoy the area trails for a walk like the Reservoir Park, Weymouth Woods or the Greenway. Also, bring your pet out in costume for the Village of Pinehurst 4th of July parade!

Pets are also a big business. You’ll find an abundance of pet services including full-service groomers, boarding facilities, pet supply companies both large and small, several top-notch veterinary clinics and even a few dog walkers. Most of the local boarders have doggie daycare available for working pet-parents.

But the best way to know that the Sandhills loves pets is by the generous support to the pet population provided by a multitude of non-profits with similar missions surrounding animal rescue and welfare. Whether you’re seeking a volunteer opportunity or a furry friend in need of a forever home, turn to organizations like the Moore Humane Society.

Want to know where the locals go? If you’re new to the area, you’ll be well on your way to earning your “I’m a local” badge of honor if you check out the winners of the ever-popular Best of the Pines contest and get yourself in the know: www.bestofthepines.com

Each summer The Pilot Newspaper hosts the Best of the Pines contest where members of the community nominate businesses in over 150 categories and then vote for the winners. Categories include dining, retail, home services, arts and more. The 2020 contest culminated in October with a COVID-friendly awards party for the winners, before they were publicly announced in The Pilot. This contest not only allows the community to recognize exemplary local businesses that are fulfilling the needs of their clients, but it brings fellow business professionals together to celebrate their successes.

Best of the Pines winners can be found all year long on bestofthepines.com.
Volunteers

Volunteers play a huge part of what makes Moore County such a vibrant community. Whether it’s keeping up the gardens at Weymouth, helping at the hospital, or coaching a Dixie Youth baseball team, volunteers add untold value to the lives of others without expecting a dime in return. Local business associations in the larger towns contribute to the beauty and economic health of their downtowns through volunteer efforts, raising money and donating it to good causes. Serving the community through local government boards and committees is another approach. Animal lovers devote thousands of hours a year to help agencies such as Moore Humane Society keep the pet population healthy and adopted to good homes.

Countless events are run each year by volunteers, such as the Sandhills Race Series, a collection of fun runs of differing distance and Friday music events during the warm months. Others volunteer with local schools, the Sunrise Theater or the Arts Council of Moore County, mentoring small businesses, or as ambassadors for the Chamber of Commerce. Whatever your special skills are or what area you’d like to get involved in, there’s likely a great avenue for you to contribute.

Leading the way in the latest advancements in health care at FirstHealth are nearly 300 medical staff members. More than 90% of these physicians are board certified—many in specialties such as cardiothoracic surgery, cardiology, neurosurgery, orthopaedics, oncology, neonatology, behavioral services and bariatric surgery.

FirstHealth leads the region in advanced heart care with services offered in the state-of-the-art Reid Heart Center at Moore Regional Hospital and in FirstHealth cardiology clinics throughout the region.

FirstHealth’s robotic surgery system gives surgeons an alternative to traditional open surgery and conventional laparoscopy by putting a surgeon’s hands at the controls of a state-of-the-art robotic system that gives them unmatched precision. Robotic surgery procedures are offered for colorectal, gynecologic oncology, oncology, thoracic, urology and surgeries.

FirstHealth’s award-winning orthopaedic program provides diagnosis and treatment of orthopaedic diseases and injuries of the musculoskeletal system—the bones and joints of the arms, legs, spine and related structures such as nerves, ligaments, tendons and muscles.

The team at FirstHealth UNC Neurosurgery & Spine specializes in the treatment of diseases and disorders of the brain, spinal cord and spinal column, and peripheral nerves in all parts of the body.

The comprehensive bariatric surgery program at FirstHealth, in partnership with Pinehurst Surgical Clinic, offers Roux-en-Y Gastric Bypass and sleeve gastrectomy.

FirstHealth Cancer Care

With the latest developments and research in lung cancer treatment, highly specialized gynecologic oncology services, expertise in colon cancer and the development of a breast cancer center, FirstHealth of the Carolinas has become a regional destination for cancer care. To accommodate the growth in cancer services, FirstHealth has begun construction of a 4-story, 120,000-square-foot comprehensive cancer center and adjoining 3-story parking deck on the Moore Regional Hospital campus.

The new cancer center will consolidate cancer services into one state-of-the-art facility to provide optimum patient-centered care. The new center will also allow cancer support services to grow with an emphasis on enhanced navigation for patients. The fourth floor of the center will have space for fitness services, a meditation space, massage services, community classrooms for support groups, a patient resource room, palliative care and nurse navigators.

“The clinical and support services offered through FirstHealth Cancer Care have advanced so much in recent years,” said Mickey Foster, chief executive officer of FirstHealth of the Carolinas. “From our top-rated medical oncologists who offer the most advanced treatment options, to our state-of-the-art radiation oncology program, to our highly-skilled surgeons and radiologists who support the team—our experts provide comprehensive cancer care from screening to diagnosis to treatment.”

FirstHealth offers a wide array of clinical trials far exceeding the average for regional medical centers, providing patients with access to new and advanced treatments before they are widely available to the public. The new cancer center will begin accepting patients in early 2023.

FirstHealth Firsts

FirstHealth made history by enrolling the first patient into a worldwide trial testing the efficacy and safety of immune therapies designed to battle cervical cancer, and as the first health care system in the nation to participate in a clinical study with Intuitive Surgical’s ion endoluminal system, a catheter-based, robotic-assisted technology. FirstHealth was the first site to enroll a patient into a clinical trial using a combination treatment regimen for COVID-19 consisting of the antiviral remdesivir and a highly concentrated solution of antibodies that neutralize SARS-CoV-2, the virus that causes COVID-19. FirstHealth was the first hospital in the region to offer the MitraClip, a minimally invasive procedure for patients with mitral valve regurgitation, also known as a leaking heart valve.

Health Care When and Where You Need It

Performed by a team of heart specialists from the FirstHealth of the Carolinas Valve Clinic, the minimally invasive procedure repaired Robinette’s leaking heart valve. Additional Medical Facilities
The Sandhills region is also home to Pinehurst Surgical, Pinehurst Medical Clinic and Carolina Eye Associates.

Pinehurst Surgical was founded on the concept of teamwork and a true dedication to delivering quality patient care. These principles have shaped every aspect of the business for more than 50 years. Pinehurst Surgical employs 36 board certified physicians, 14 mid-level providers and a professional staff of more than 230 who offer specialty services in women’s care, bariatric surgery, orthopaedics, pain management, plastic and reconstructive surgery, physical therapy, audiology, and vascular and vein care. Pinehurst Surgical services more than 50,000 patients annually. As a multi-specialty center, it has more treatment options than typical surgical practices.

Residents of the Sandhills have trusted and relied on Pinehurst Medical Clinic for more than 60 years for services ranging from routine check-ups to the treatment of complex problems or their immediate health needs. The state-of-the-art facility provides specialized services, and is equipped to conduct onsite tests and medical procedures. Pinehurst Medical Clinic’s cutting edge services include endocrinology, internal medicine, family medicine and gastroenterology.

Carolina Eye Associates was established in Pinehurst and Southern Pines in the late 1970s, and has grown into one of the largest eye care practices in the Southeast. It is made up of eight regional eye care centers in both North and South Carolina.

The flagship center in Pinehurst/Southern Pines offers patients the added convenience of an onsite Outpatient Surgery Center, Minor Surgery Suite and LASIK Suite. The surgery center is one of the most modern and well-equipped outpatient surgical facilities in the Southeast.
Moore County offers a variety of public and private educational opportunities for students K-12, and is home to one of the most popular community colleges in the state. The college is also partnered with several accredited university programs and local industries in order to ensure graduates a successful future, and those going into the workforce receive proper training.
Prior to beginning their journeys in Moore County Schools, it is essential that all children have the opportunity to build early development skills that will enhance their success in a rigorous and innovative academic curriculum. Moore County Schools (MCS) is one of 70 counties in North Carolina that utilizes a research-based program called Creative Curriculum in all of its pre-school classes that focuses on principles of early child development. Through a partnership with North Carolina’s Smart Start program, MCS preschoolers are prepared for success in kindergarten by enhanced readiness in the areas of reading, basic mathematics and social emotional skills.

Moore County Schools’ Digital Learning Initiative provides a Chromebook device for all students grades 2 through 12, for use in school and at home. Kindergarten and 1st grade students are provided an iPad for use at school and at home. The purposes of the initiative are to ensure students are college and career ready; to provide opportunities for students to showcase mastery and growth through the creation and publication of digital work; and to immerse students in personalized learning experiences to collaborate, create and publish, always grounded in the foundation of the curriculum standards.

“Engage. Inspire. Succeed.” is the name of MCS’ Strategic Plan for 2018-2021. The plan includes strategic action steps within the five domains of academic achievement; student safety, health and welfare; employee culture and capacity; parent and community engagement; and organizational capacity and efficiency. The county’s 22 public schools offer students challenging lessons taught by licensed professionals with years of... experience in the field and in the classroom. In fact, nearly half of the school system’s certified employees have obtained a master’s degree or higher in their field of expertise or in teaching.

Elementary, middle school and high school teachers engage students with rigorous and innovative teaching and learning opportunities. District and school opportunities that support students to be future ready include the STEM initiative, which includes robotics programs in grades K-12, science kits for grades K-8, CyberPatriot teams at all three high schools, and summer STEM camps that introduce students to STEM-focused careers such as computer programming, forensics, robotics, engineering and chemistry; technology resources and tools; service projects; clubs; athletics and the arts. Moore County is one of only four “Innovation Academies” in the state of North Carolina as well as the only district in NC to be awarded multiple Digital Teaching and Learning Grants. The five leadership skills that students focus on include accountability, service, adaptability, teamwork and responsibility.

Moore County’s excellent high schools make it easy for students to successfully transition into college. SAT scores consistently meet or exceed state and national averages, and all three schools offer Advanced Placement courses, enabling students to start earning college credits in high school. Sandhills Community College also allows high school students in Moore and Hoke Counties to take courses prior to graduation exempt of tuition fees.

In an effort to partner more effectively with Moore County’s homeschool population, Moore County Schools offers a “blend+ed” program for K-5 and 9-12 students. For grades K-5, students attend face-to-face instruction two days per week for one-half the day with the remaining days spent with instruction at home with materials provided by Moore County Schools’ teachers. Student enrolled would have the option to participate in extracurricular activities and art, music and PE classes. For grades 9-12, students can build a course load that meets their individual needs, using a mix of online classes and traditional or homeschool classes. They may also participate in high school athletics, ROTC, extracurriculars, arts and other activities.

For a fully virtual option, Moore County Schools offers Connect! Virtual Academy. Students learn grade-level content from a certified and fully licensed MCS teacher on pace with their peers in face-to-face instruction. Sessions are offered both live as well as recorded. For more information about Moore County Schools’ virtual academy, visit www.ncmcs.org.

In addition to a highly accredited public school system, Moore County has several private schools and charter schools, such as The O’Neal School, Episcopal Day School, Sandhills Classical Christian, The Academy of Moore, and STARS. O’Neal students can attend from kindergarten through graduation at a comprehensive private school with a focus on academic achievement. Episcopal Day runs grades K-8 and stresses strong foundations for life long learning.

For those who want to embrace a religious lifestyle in the classroom, Moore County has Christian academies available for students. Sandhills Classical Christian combines a challenging learning environment with a Christian based approach to develop high achievers in grades K-12.

The Academy of Moore, has been in place for 17 years and is a top rated public charter elementary school in North Carolina. A newer addition to the Moore County charter school offerings is Moore Montessori which opened it’s doors to 90 elementary school students in 2018. These schools offer alternative, advanced learning opportunities for students interested in smaller class sizes and/or special curricula.

Whether moving across state lines or just across town, new residents benefit from experts who stand at the ready to help young professionals, growing families, military personnel, and retirees find an ideal fit for their lifestyle.
Although purchasing a new or existing home looks very different now, the market in 2020 and throughout COVID-19 remained stable. By contacting a Local Realtor, those new guidelines can be easily navigated as they serve as the frontline to help prospective residents navigate the diversity of choices in neighborhoods and homes. These professionals know the assets of the towns comprising Moore County, understand the many emotions flooding buyers, and are skilled negotiators, all of which combine to make Realtors a home-buyer’s best friend.

To find a local agent, you can refer to the Member Directory at the back of this book. The Mid Carolina Regional Association of Realtors is also a fabulous source to find the perfect realtor match for you. Residents seeking rental properties should check with real estate agencies, many of which provide rental listings among their services or reach out to one of the area rental and property management companies like Sarvis Management, Village of Pinehurst Rentals and Strother Property Management.

The Moore County Home Builders Association should be your first stop if you are thinking about building or renovating a home in the area. The MCHB inspires new and existing residents with its annual Home & Garden Expo each May. The weekend event brings builders, designers, decorators, landscape professionals and home retailers together under one roof. Plus, the Association’s annual “Home of the Year” competition presents a unique opportunity to see the latest and most excellent trends in new homes and updated existing structures.

The communities that make up Moore County are accessible to one another and to neighboring cities with a good transportation infrastructure, making for an easy commute to Fort Bragg or the Triangle. Close-knit subdivisions, walkable downtowns, and roomy farm communities complement one another, giving residents ample choices to suit their needs.
Healthy Living
If fitness is your thing, you’ll certainly be pleased with the diverse options this community has to offer. Area trails like the Greenway weave their way through the Sandhills providing safe paths for walking, running, biking (and even horseback riding.) Running clubs have become a popular pastime for enthusiasts, often beginning or ending at neighborhood watering holes like the Southern Pines Growler Shop.

Other group fitness activities found around town include Fit4Mom, Stroller Strides and Sassy Tappers- all sponsored by the Village of Pinehurst. FirstHealth offers the area’s largest traditional gym, the First Health Fitness Center in Pinehurst. Other gyms like Anytime Fitness provide around the clock access to members. There are a number of concept studios like CrossFit, Pure Barre and Forte Fitness that each offer unique training models in addition to a wide range of yoga and pilates studios throughout the community, all helping to ensure that no matter your exercise preference, you’ll be able to find your niche in Moore County.

With the emergence of the craft brewing industry, it’s no surprise that Moore County has breweries, wineries and cider houses of its own. The trendsetter was Rail House Brewery that was opened nearly a decade ago by veterans in historic downtown Aberdeen. Following suit, three retired Green Berets traded in their boots for barley and started brewing beers like Man of Law IPA and Duck Hook cream ale, opening Southern Pines Brewing Company in late 2014. Both breweries have family friendly taprooms and are hosts to community events throughout the year including Southern Pines Brewery’s Pints and Poses yoga classes, networking mixers and outdoor concerts.

Pinehurst Resort opened a brewery in late 2018 tucked just a few blocks from the resort’s Carolina Hotel. It occupies what was the original village steam plant that once powered all of Pinehurst. Boasting the building’s original brick facade and steel windows, it is now a restaurant and brewery serving craft beers and barbecue.

Hatchet Brewing Company opened in the fall of 2019 in downtown Southern Pines.

Cypress Bend Vineyards, located in nearby Wagram, has been cultivating over 30 acres of muscadine variety grapes into 16 table wines since 2005. They host Jazzy Fridays weekly under a bigtop, with musical guests like The Embers and The Band of Oz. Carthage is also home to a winery, Black Rock Vineyards, with a tasting room open four days a week.

James Creek Cider House harvests 65 varieties of apples in Cameron to create signature small batch ciders that they sell across the state at select bottle shops, farmers market and locally at area wine shops, pubs and restaurants.

Southern Pines Growler Company and Southern Pines Brewing Company both expanded operations in 2020, opening tap rooms in new locations.

Youth Activities
If your family is into athletics, there are a host of choices available for kids of all ages. Southern Pines, Aberdeen and Pinehurst have thriving recreational departments offering seasonal sport leagues. Additionally, AC Sandhills, a privately run sports league, supports recreational and traveling club soccer, volleyball and lacrosse. The Sandhills Optimist Club offers fall football and spring baseball for ages 6-13, while the Sandhills Lacrosse League has a local travel lacrosse team for high school boys who wish to play at a competitive level. The O’Neal Swim team is a year-round competitive swim team for all ages. Football players are primed for the Friday night lights through the Sandhills Patriots youth league. Aspiring young golfers can join programs like US Kids Golf which is headquartered at Longleaf Golf Club in Southern Pines or First Tee of the Sandhills.

Moore County is also home to the National Athletic Village, which offers athletic adventures ranging from youth rugby and field hockey programs to dance classes, strength training, archery, summer camps, hiking trails, futsal programs and everything in between. NAV is a membership facility that includes a performance gym.

Finally, there are a handful of local dance studios, some offering classes to children as young as 2 years old, like Terpsichore and Carolina Performing Arts Center in Southern Pines, and others that compete at a high level at national competitions including nine-time national champions Seven Lakes Dance. Sandhills Academy of Gymnastics has been home to competitive gymnastic teams for close to 30 years, but it’s probably best known for its Friday Night Fun Gym. Contact local businesses/organizations for current CDC restrictions regarding COVID-19.
The southern half of Moore County is linked by location to an important and growing population of men and women in the US Armed Forces. Part of Fort Bragg is in Moore County, and Pope Army Airfield is only a few miles south of Moore County. Camp MacKall is another training facility used by Special Forces that borders the southern tip of the county. Fort Bragg is one of the largest military installations in the world.
The bases are the perfect distance away; far enough so that county residents aren’t disturbed by daily training exercises, but close enough for a quick and easy commute. That leads many military families to move to Moore County. For decades, a significant number of retired military families have also chosen to settle down in Moore County.

It’s not only a great setup for military families, it’s great for the local economy too. The county’s close proximity to several military bases allows for several local defense industries. In 2014, Moore County businesses made 108 U.S. defense contracts, equivalent to more than $35 million, an increase of 48% in the number of contracts awarded and a 36.6% increase in the total dollar value. Along with the continued support of the Moore County Chamber and Moore County’s Partners in Progress, local defense industries continue to grow and thrive.

The North Carolina Military Business Center, www.ncmbc.us, and MatchForce, www.matchforce.org, are valuable resources available to assist local companies with military business opportunities. The local defense industries bolster the economy to a valuable extent.

Military spouses are also busy working and volunteering in the community, and a number of them have started new businesses. R.Riveter is a prime example; They use military excess materials to fashion a host of high-end leather and fabric designs like handbags, purses, wallets and such. They have a retail store in Southern Pines, and sell their unique creations across the country via the web.

Retired military members are also making an impact on local businesses. Spartan Blades is a national award-winning maker of high-end utility and collectable knives owned by veterans. As the military population continues to grow, their impact on the local business landscape will as well.

As a way of saying thanks to our troops, several local businesses offer military discounts. Moore County has local chapters of Military Officers Association of America and Sentinels of Freedom, organizations whose missions are “to provide life-changing opportunities for men and women of the U.S. Armed Forces who have suffered severe injuries and need the support of grateful communities to realize their goals and dreams.” Several military appreciation events are held each year.

Our close proximity makes it easy for military men and women to serve their country during the day, and come home for dinner at night. Many grow to love Moore County while in service, and decide to stick around for retirement or to start new businesses. There’s not a much better place to be stationed while serving in the US military.
Golf is and will continue to be the aspect of life in the Sandhills that echoes around the world. In addition to the U.S. Open Championship returning to Pinehurst No. 2 in 2024, there will be thousands of other tournaments played on its greens in the meantime. Hundreds of thousands of people come to the area from across the world for the sole purpose of savoring the renowned courses in America’s “Home of Golf.” With more than 40 courses, most of them semi-private, there is a fair test for every player’s level, and a favorite hole, view and course from every visit. Pinehurst No. 2 is on every golfer’s bucket list.

Golf contributes greatly to the local quality of life because those visitors stay in hotels, eat in restaurants and shop while they are here. There is an old saying in the sport, “If you play golf, you are my friend.” Golf has been a friend to this area for more than 100 years, and the sport, more than any single thing, put Moore County on the world map.

Gardens & Wildlife Areas

Outdoor activities in Moore County are as abundant as they are diverse. There are recreational park facilities for children, and lush gardens for those looking for a pleasant place to walk and relax. For residents that want more rigorous outdoor experiences, Moore County has trails to be hiked and rivers to be conquered by canoes and fishermen.

Sandhills Community College Horticultural Gardens house one of the most beautiful areas in the county. Their winding walkways guide residents through almost 32 acres of gorgeous plant life and shrubbery, all of which fall under 14 unique garden themes. The community college highlights historical significance by lining the trails with information about the county’s most treasured botanical feats. The garden is also maintained by the college’s landscape gardening program. It’s a popular spot for family pictures and weddings, and serves as a relaxing spot to get some peace and quiet without fully embracing the natural allure of the outdoors.

For a vigorous trail-run, or some entertaining bird-watching in the area’s glorious longleaf pine trees, head to the natural area at Weymouth Woods in Southern Pines. It spans almost 900 acres and was North Carolina’s first natural area. Its focus is sustaining and promoting plant growth and wildlife rather than facilitating recreational activities like camping and fishing. Weymouth offers weekly trail tours, as well as special events for wildlife enthusiasts, such as guided bird-watches.
Perhaps the most popular outdoor area in Moore County is Southern Pines Reservoir Park. Exercise runs rampant around the reservoir’s 95-acre lake. The man-made trails are great for bikers and runners who want challenging terrain. Residents can get exercise on the lake, too. Kayaking is easily accessible, and fishermen can canoe on the lake for some quiet pole reeling. The ongoing Deep River Trails project hopes to establish a series of cycling routes connecting the reservoir to eight other counties, spanning over 350 miles of trails.

There are several other lakes in Aberdeen, Carthage and Whispering Pines that are open to fishermen and kayakers. Head north towards Robbins to kayak and canoe down Bear Creek, Cabin Creek or the Deep River, which also offers river races during the year.

Equestrian & Public Parks

Those looking for something more competitive can check out one of the 18 Moore County public parks. Most have playgrounds for children, as well as public sports facilities for those interested in baseball, disc golf, soccer, tennis and more. Several of the county’s municipalities have leagues and teams for adults, and the Moore County Recreation Department ensures kids a place to play and be active through their teenage years.

Not only were the Sandhills made for excellent golf, they were made for excellent horseback riding too. The equestrian opportunities are both high quality and expansive.

The most recent large-scale development is the Carolina Horse Park. It offers over 250-acres of national competition venues, and its non-profit status ensures local equestrian enthusiasts preservation of recreational horse land. The park hosted the American Eventing Championship its first three years in existence. It’s the only facility in the mid-Atlantic region able to host multiple competition disciplines at the championship level, and the organization brings an estimated $1.5 million dollars into the local economy.

Another prominent local equestrian facility is the Pinehurst Harness Track, which covers over 100 acres of land and has 20 barns. It’s a popular spot for winter training because it has sand and clay tracks, which also make it conducive to host other types of events, such as dog races and polocrosse.

Farmers Markets

Ecological developments during the past several years have pushed local economies to “go green.” Moore County recognizes the value of such initiatives, and has implemented several plans to support this transition. The county’s Farm to Table cooperative has expanded, partnering with local farmers to not only bring fresh produce and goods to consumers, but to local restaurants as well. Farm to Table has already brought together over 1,200 county residents who subscribe to receive produce that’s gathered from at least 30 local farmers.

A new initiative is called Farm to Institution, and the goal is to encourage local restaurant owners to use the same produce in their kitchens that consumers enjoy using in their own. This, combined with Moore County’s already active farmers markets, creates local environmental awareness that enables a healthy lifestyle and supports the local economy.

For the past 100 years, fox hunting and the Moore County Hounds have been a fixture in Moore County, and almost as long as golf. Without missing a beat, this event was held virtually in November of 2020, to avoid crowds due to COVID-19 restrictions. Author James Boyd is credited with starting the hunting practice and subsequent “Horse Country” that developed after he built his home, Weymouth, and invited friends and colleagues to come down and build farms to winter their horses. Now there are dozens of majestic farms in the area around Southern Pines.

A unique annual event called the Blessing of the Hounds is ceremoniously performed in a large field just outside of Southern Pines as a prelude to a hunt. Riders dress in their best red and black coats, with horses groomed and fitted with their shiniest saddles and tack. Several thousand people attend, some tailgating for hours, as the horses and dressed riders prepare to take off. The Moore County Hounds is a privately owned pack of dogs that board nearby. On Thanksgiving Day, the dogs get the blessing, and the visitors get a beautiful vision of a time lost to most.
